ILL FATED SHIP IN LATEST SEA CATASTROPHE.

This is the Empress of Ireland, the queen of the Canadian Pacific's magnificent fleet of ocean liners, which went down with about 1,000 passengers and members of the crew, at the mouth of the St. Lawrence after she had been rammed by the collier Storstad, in a fog 3 o'clock in the morning, when the majority of those on board the big liner, bound from Montreal to Liverpool were asleep.

VILLA'S ARMY PUSHING SOUTH

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Torreon, Mex., June 1.—The brigades of Generals Hernandez and Herrera have arrived here and today are being equipped with clothing and supplies of ammunition before going south to join the main portion of General Villa's army, which is pushing its way toward Zacatecas. General Villa said today that he had about 4,000,000 rounds of ammunition for his army, but that he would need at least twice as much before he concluded his campaign with the fall of the capital.

Villa probably will leave for Juarez this afternoon to hasten the shipment of ammunition from that point. To the 17,000 men who are now actively in the campaign against Zacatecas, Villa has authorized the payment of $85,000, or $5 each, in addition to their regular pay.

The rebel commander-in-chief today said he had plenty of artillery for the attack on Mexico City.

"This," he said, "includes 58 cannon, 86 rapid fire guns and 14,000 rifles. The ammunition we took from the Federals will help us greatly but we need much more."

As Villa's forces progress southward they drive out the Catholic priests against whom the Constitutionalist leader had declared a policy of extermination. Eleven who were arrested at Saltillo and brought here have been sent on to Chihuahua, whence they will proceed to the border and seek refuge in the United States.

Navigation Notes.

Two night boats left Rondout Sunday night at 6 o'clock for New York, the Romer and Ramsdell, and both were well loaded with New York people returning from the two days' vacation spent in Kingston and vicinity. When the Newburgh went down Saturday she also carried a goodly number of passengers.

An excursion was brought to Kingston Point Saturday by the steamer M. Martin and returned on the Jacob H. Tremper.

WILD WOMEN BURN HISTORIC CHURCH

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Henley on Thames, Eng., June 1.—Another week of suffragette violence was ushered in today with attacks on historic religious property. The Wargrave Parish Church, regarded as a national monument because of its historic associations, was burned by the arson squad early today. Attached to grave stones in the little cemetery adjacent to the church were slips of paper reading:

"Stop the persecution of women."

Only the register and a few ornaments were rescued from the church through the personal bravery of the Vicar, the Rev. Staunton Batty. The loss of old Norman treasures in the church and other antiquarian relics is incalculable.

The police [illegible] important clue [illegible] who are believed to have come from London.

Incendiaries, believed to be women, set fire to a forest on the estate near Windsor formerly owned by the duchess of Sutherland. The mansion was saved with great difficulty.

Large Crowds at the Point.

Thousands of Kingstonians went to Kingston Point on Decoration Day, which always marks the opening of this popular resort and the attractions there were liberally patronized. Records were broken in the carrying of passengers by the trolley company in spite of the other attractions about town. This may in part be due to the many excursionists landed at the point by the various steamers. Sunday was also another big day for the trolley roads and there were many people landed from the steamers Trojan and Rensselaer. The Washington Irving and Hendrick Hudson brought large excursions to the point Saturday.

Trimmed by High Falls.

The High Falls baseball team journeyed to Napanoch on Decoration Day by way of two automobiles and trimmed the baseball team of that place by the score of 8 to 5. Meyers was on the firing line for High Falls. This makes four games the High Falls team has won out of five played. The latter will cross bats with the Knickerbocker baseball team of Kingston on Sunday, June 7, on the local grounds. The dance given for the benefit of the local club on Decoration Day was largely attended. They will give another in the near future.

Excursionists Were Stranded.

The steamer Adirondack came up to the ice house dock at Kingston Point on Saturday afternoon with a large excursion on board. Some of the excursionists came ashore and walked around Kingston Point Park. While they were engaged in viewing the scenery the steamer left and they were forced to come to Rondout and take the ferry for Rhinecliff and get trains back to New York. They claimed no notice was given that the boat would immediately return and all were extremely profane in denouncing the steamboat company.

Pistol Shots in Ponckhockie.

Policeman Connelly reported to the police department Sunday night that he heard two pistol shots on Delaware avenue near Abruyn street, and started toward the vicinity from which the noise came. He was able to see two fleeing figures but they quickly disappeared before he had a chance to call them to halt. It is thought to be the work of negro laborers on the brickyards at Kingston Point.

Fell Down Stairs.

Mrs. Catherine Mager, an aged resident of Murray street, is confined to her home by reason of a bad fall which she suffered a few days ago. Her husband found her lying at the foot of a flight of stairs in an unconscious condition and quickly sent for a physician who brought her to. At this time her condition is greatly improved.

ITALIAN STABBED BY HOLDUP MAN

Word was received by the police on Sunday afternoon about 3:30 o'clock that an Italian had held up a countryman on the road between Ashokan and Cold Brook and after assaulting him had robbed the man of $11. The man wanted is Luigi Luccianna and his victim was Niccolo Muccante, who was stabbed in the back. The stabbing occurred about 7:30 Sunday morning. Luccianna is about 24 years old, five feet seven inches tall and weighs about 150 pounds. He has a front tooth missing. When last seen he wore a blue cap, blue shirt and overalls and blue handkerchief around his neck. He worked for the Continental Public Works Company and had a brass check 163 and also a check of Samuel Beskin. He was seen walking down the Ulster & Delaware tracks after the [illegible] and the news was not received in this city until eight hours after it occurred the police despair of finding the man unless he stays around town. The injuries of Muccante are not serious.

Memorial Day at High Falls.

Memorial Day was observed at High Falls on Sunday by a special service at the Reformed Church. The Rev. Henry W. Schwitters, who has been called to the pastorate of the church, presided, and an address was also made by the Rev. Mr. Agnew, pastor of the High Falls Episcopal Church, who spoke in regard to a fund for the care of graves of the old soldiers who are buried in that vicinity. An elaborate program of recitations and songs was well rendered by the young people of the Sunday school.

The address of the day was delivered by County Attorney John W. Eckert of this city. Mr. Eckert spoke eloquently and his address was listened to with close attention.

Gold Mine Opened.

J. N. Hesley, a former resident of Rifton and bookkeeper of Dimick's carpet mill at that place, is now owner of a quarter interest in the "Annie M" gold mine which is now going developed at Raudsburg, Cal. Hesley changed his place of residence three years ago on account of his poor health. Once there he rapidly rose in his position until now he is assistant auditor of the Independent Steamship Company and director in the Shipsey Mining and Milling Company, beside being owner of a quarter interest in the above mentioned mine. If this interest turns out successfully he will indeed be a wealthy man, so we all hope for his success.

Chodikee Ponies Run Away.

The team of ponies owned by the Raymond Riordon School at Chodikee, near Highland, ran away on Saturday and collided with a vehicle owned by Jerome Pratt, Donald Heffron, who was driving the ponies, was thrown out and dragged and sustained a severe scalp wound besides injuries to his side, face and legs. He was unconscious for half an hour. Upon examination by Dr. Rivernburgh it was learned that he had also sustained a concussion of the brain. He is said to be improving.

Harry Schoonmaker of Sleightsburgh was arrested this morning on the complaint of a neighbor, Mrs. Doyle, by Detective William Cohen and arraigned before Justice McKenzie. Being unable to furnish a bond for $300, he was locked up in the county jail this noon. According to the story Schoonmaker threatened to "knock the stuffens" out of Mrs. Doyle.

His Arm Broken.

Milton O. Auchmoody, the lawyer, broke his arm on Thursday evening when cranking his automobile. The machine backfired and the crank flew back, breaking his wrist. About two years ago Mr. Auchmoody broke his arm in practically the same manner.

DO SOMETHING FOR FEDERATION DAY

Today is Federation Day, the last day on which collections will be made from house to house for the work at the Federation House. If you were out when the collector called or for any other reason have not given to this the city's most widespread and comprehensive philanthropopy, do so today. You can send or take some money to the Federation House tonight if you have not the opportunity to give in any other way. Here is a bit of fine appreciation of the work being done at the Federation House. Already the young women who make up the Saturday Evening Girls' Club at the Federation House and the Young Defenders' League and the Lindsley Club also of the Federation House have each contributed a dollar to Federation Day. Can you afford to do less? This evening at seven o'clock all boxes are to be presented at the Federation House by [illegible] at which time the money will be counted.

Entertainment and Musicale.

The Ladies Aid Society of the First Reformed Dutch Church will, on Wednesday, June 17, give a very delightful entertainment and musicale in the chapel of the chruch. The program will include readings by Miss Mattie Riseley of this city, just graduated from the Emerson School of Oratory, Boston, Masss., piano solos by Miss Woods of Hatfield, Mass., tenor solos by Mr. Leonard; baritone solos by Mr. Jackson and soprano solos by Miss Gertrude Bruyn. The evening promises to be one of unusual attraction.

Wilbur Club Won.

On Sunday in Wilbur the Wilbur baseball club met and defeated the crack Holy Name Club of St. Joseph's Church of Kingston by a score of 10-7. Although the score being large the game was well contested, Wilbur having the shade in all departments. Eddie Dunne, Wilbur's old reliable, was on the mound for Wilbur, with Sam Peyer on the receiving end doing duty in big league style, although badly crippled. Carrol and McMann were the battery for the Holy Name.

The Spectator is Out.

The Spectator, the annual publication of the senior class of Kingston Academy, was placed on sale today. This year's Spectator is even better than those of previous years and compares most favorably with the leading prep school publications throughout the state. This year's Spectator is more essentially a literary work and is full of interesting reading. It contains full page cuts of the various athletic teams together with an account of athletics at K. A. during the past year. This year's Spectator is dedicated to Miss Walton, who is mathematical teacher at K. A., and who stands very high in the affections and regard of the pupils. Editor Schmid deserves credit, for the 1914 Spectator is one of the best produced, right through from the cover design to the very last page. The staff is as follows: Editor-in-chief, Walter Schmid; assistant editors, Gladys Pennington and Ross Goddard; Girl's Athletic Association editor, Miss Ethel Overbaugh; Social editor, Miss Ruth Smith; art editor, Herbert H. A. B. C. MEDIATORS ARE DEADLOCKED

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Mediation Headquarters, Clifton Hotel, Niagara Falls, Ont., June 1.—A deadlock has been reached in the Mexican mediation conferences. This was admitted by Justice Joseph R. Lamar, one of the American delegates, this afternoon.

The deadlock is said to have been caused by the resistance of the Huerta delegates and the "A. B. C." mediators to the admission of a representative of General Carranza to the conferences without the Constitutionalist chief having agreed to an armistice.

The American state department wants the Carranzistas to have a voice in the proceedings, but at their conference with the American delegates today the mediators objected to such action and the conference ended without any such arrangement having been made.

When the Americans left the conference Justice Lamar said:

"We have had a conference in which we continued the discussion of a point about which we had not agreed on Saturday. The matter is still under discussion. We found in our talk that we were not so far apart in our construction of certain phrases and we are still quite hopeful."

ILL FATED SHIP IN LATEST SEA CATASTROPHE.

This is the Empress of Ireland, the queen of the Canadian Pacific's magnificent fleet of ocean liners, which went down with about 1,000 passengers and members of the crew, at the mouth of the St. Lawrence after she had been rammed by the collier Storstad, in a fog 3 o'clock in the morning, when the majority of those on board the big liner, bound from Montreal to Liverpool were asleep.

VILLA'S ARMY PUSHING SOUTH

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Torreon, Mex., June 1.—The brigades of Generals Hernandez and Herrera have arrived here and today are being equipped with clothing and supplies of ammunition before going south to join the main portion of General Villa's army, which is pushing its way toward Zacatecas. General Villa said today that he had about 4,000,000 rounds of ammunition for his army, but that he would need at least twice as much before he concluded his campaign with the fall of the capital.

[illegible] probably will leave for [illegible] this afternoon to hasten the [illegible]t of ammunition from that [illegible] To the 17,000 men who [illegible]ctively in the campaign [illegible] Villa has authorized $85,000, or $5 each, in addition to their regular pay.

The rebel commander-in-chief today said he had plenty of artillery for the attack on Mexico City.

"This," he said, "includes 58 cannon, 86 rapid fire guns and 14,000 rifles. The ammunition we took from the Federals will help us greatly but we need much more."

As Villa's forces progress southward they drive out the Catholic priests against whom the Constitutionalist leader had declared a policy of extermination. Eleven who were arrested at Saltillo and brought here have been sent on to Chihuahua, whence they will proceed to the border and seek refuge in the United States.

Navigation Notes.

Two night boats left Rondout Sunday night at 6 o'clock for New York, the Romer and Ramsdell, and both were well loaded with New York people returning from the two days' vacation spent in Kingston and vicinity. When the Newburgh went down Saturday she also carried a goodly number of passengers.

An excursion was brought to Kingston Point Saturday by the steamer M. Martin and returned on the Jacob H. Tremper.

WILD WOMEN BURN HISTORIC CHURCH

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Henley on Thames, Eng., June 1.—Another week of suffragette violence was ushered in today with attacks on historic religious property. The Wargrave Parish Church, regarded as a national monument because of its historic associations, was burned by the arson squad early today. Attached to grave stones in the little cemetery adjacent to the church were slips of paper reading:

Only the register and a few ornaments were rescued from the church through the personal bravery of the Vicar, the Rev. Staunton Batty. The loss of old Norman treasures in the church and other antiquarian relics is incalculable.

The police [illegible] imports [illegible] who are believed to have come from London.

Large Crowds at the Point.

Thousands of Kingstonians went to Kingston Point on Decoration Day, which always marks the opening of this popular resort and the attractions there were liberally patronized. Records were broken in the carrying of passengers by the trolley company in spite of the other attractions about town. This may in part be due to the many excursionists landed at the point by the various steamers. Sunday was also another big day for the trolley roads and there were many people landed from the steamers Trojan and Rensselaer. The Washington Irving and Hendrick Hudson brought large excursions to the point Saturday.

Trimmed by High Falls.

The High Falls baseball team journeyed to Napanoch on Decoration Day by way of two automobiles and trimmed the baseball team of that place by the score of 8 to 5. Meyers was on the firing line for High Falls. This makes four games the High Falls team has won out of five played. The latter will cross bats with the Knickerbocker baseball team of Kingston on Sunday, June 7, on the local grounds. The dance given for the benefit of the local club on Decoration Day was largely attended. They will give another in the near future.

Excursionists Were Stranded.

The steamer Adirondack came up to the ice house dock at Kingston Point on Saturday afternoon with a large excursion on board. Some of the excursionists came ashore and walked around Kingston Point Park. While they were engaged in viewing the scenery the steamer left and they were forced to come to Rondout and take the ferry for Rhinecliff and get trains back to New York. They claimed no notice was given that the boat would immediately return and all were extremely profane in denouncing the steamboat company.

Pistol Shots in Ponckhockie.

Policeman Connelly reported to the police department Sunday night that he heard two pistol shots on Delaware avenue near Abruyn street, and started toward the vicinity from which the noise came. He was able to see two fleeing figures but they quickly disappeared before he had a chance to call them to halt. It is thought to be the work of negro laborers on the brickyards at Kingston Point.

Fell Down Stairs.

Mrs. Catherine Mager, an aged resident of Murray street, is confined to her home by reason of a bad fall which she suffered a few days ago. Her husband found her lying at the foot of a flight of stairs in an unconscious condition and quickly sent for a physician who brought her to. At this time her condition is greatly improved.

ITALIAN STABBED BY HOLDUP MAN

Word was received by the police on Sunday afternoon about 3:30 o'clock that an Italian had held up a countryman on the road between Ashokan and Cold Brook and after assaulting him had robbed the man of $11. The man wanted is Luigi Luccianna and his victim was Niccolo Muccante, who was stabbed in the back. The stabbing occurred about 7:30 Sunday morning. Luccianna is about 24 years old, five feet seven inches tall and weighs about 150 pounds. He has a front tooth missing. When last seen he wore a blue cap, blue shirt and overalls and blue handkerchief around his neck. He worked for the Continental Public Works Company and had a brass check 163 and also a check of Samuel Beskin. He was seen walking down the Ulster & Delaware tracks after the news was not received in this city until eight hours after it occurred the police despair of finding the man unless he stays around town. The injuries of Muccante are not serious.

Memorial Day at High Falls.

Memorial Day was observed at High Falls on Sunday by a special service at the Reformed Church. The Rev. Henry W. Schwitters, who has been called to the pastorate of the church, presided, and an address was also made by the Rev. Mr. Agnew, pastor of the High Falls Episcopal Church, who spoke in regard to a fund for the care of graves of the old soldiers who are buried in that vicinity. An elaborate program of recitations and songs was well rendered by the young people of the Sunday school.

The address of the day was delivered by County Attorney John W. Eckert of this city. Mr. Eckert spoke eloquently and his address was listened to with close attention.

Gold Mine Opened.

J. N. Hesley, a former resident of Rifton and bookkeeper of Dimick's carpet mill at that place, is now owner of a quarter interest in the "Annie M" gold mine which is now geing developed at Raudsburg, Cal. Hesley changed his place of residence three years ago on account of his poor health. Once there he rapidly rose in his position until now he is assistant auditor of the Independent Steamship Company and director in the Shipsey Mining and Milling Company, beside being owner of a quarter interest in the above mentioned mine. If this interest turns out successfully he will indeed be a wealthy man, so we all hope for his success.

Chodikee Ponies Run Away.

The team of ponies owned by the Raymond Riordon School at Chodikee, near Highland, ran away on Saturday and collided with a vehicle owned by Jerome Pratt, Donald Heffron, who was driving the ponies, was thrown out and dragged and sustained a severe scalp wound besides injuries to his side, face and legs. He was unconscious for half an hour. Upon examination by Dr. Rivernburgh it was learned that he had also sustained a concussion of the brain. He is said to be improving.

Harry Schoonmaker of Sleightsburgh was arrested this morning on the complaint of a neighbor, Mrs. Doyle, by Detective William Cohen and arraigned before Justice McKenzie. Being unable to furnish a bond for $300, he was locked up in the county jail this noon. According to the story Schoonmaker threatened to "knock the stuffens" out of Mrs. Doyle.

His Arm Broken.

Milton O. Auchmoody, the lawyer, broke his arm on Thursday evening when cranking his automobile. The machine backfired and the crank flew back, breaking his wrist. About two years ago Mr. Auchmoody broke his arm in practically the same manner.

DO SOMETHING FOR FEDERATION DAY

Today is Federation Day, the last day on which collections will be made from house to house for the work at the Federation House. If you were out when the collector called or for any other reason have not given to this the city's most widespread and comprehensive philanthropopy, do so today. You can send or take some money to the Federation House tonight if you have not the opportunity to give in any other way. Here is a bit of fine appreciation of the work being done at the Federation House. Already the young women who make up the Saturday Evening Girls' Club at the Federation House and the Young Defenders' League and the Lindsley Club also of the Federation House have each contributed a dollar to Federation Day. Can you afford to do less? This evening at seven o'clock all boxes are to be presented at the Federation House by [illegible] district manager, at which [illegible] money will be counted.

Entertainment and Musicale.

The Ladies Aid Society of the First Reformed Dutch Church will, on Wednesday, June 17, give a very delightful entertainment and musicale in the chapel of the church. The program will include readings by Miss Mattie Riseley of this city, just graduated from the Emerson School of Oratory, Boston, Masss., piano solos by Miss Woods of Hatfield, Mass., tenor solos by Mr. Leonard; baritone solos by Mr. Jackson and soprano solos by Miss Gertrude Bruyn. The evening promises to be one of unusual attraction.

Wilbur Club Won.

On Sunday in Wilbur the Wilbur baseball club met and defeated the crack Holy Name Club of St. Joseph's Church of Kingston by a score of 10-7. Although the score being large the game was well contested, Wilbur having the shade in all departments. Eddie Dunne, Wilbur's old reliable, was on the mound for Wilbur, with Sam Peyer on the receiving end doing duty in big league style, although badly crippled. Carrol and McMann were the battery for the Holy Name.

The Spectator is Out.

The Spectator, the annual publication of the senior class of Kingston Academy, was placed on sale today. This year's Spectator is even better than those of previous years and compares most favorably with the leading prep school publications throughout the state. This year's Spectator is more essentially a literary work and is full of interesting reading. It contains full page cuts of the various athletic teams together with an account of athletics at K. A. during the past year. This year's Spectator is dedicated to Miss Walton, who is mathematical teacher at K. A., and who stands very high in the affections and regard of the pupils. Editor Schmid deserves credit, for the 1914 Spectator is one of the best produced, right through from the cover design to the very last page. The staff is as follows: Editor-in-chief, Walter Schmid; assistant editors, Gladys Pennington and Ross Goddard; Girl's Athletic Association editor, Miss Ethel Overbaugh; Social editor, Miss Ruth Smith; art editor, Herbert H. Hughes; literary editor, Ruth Overbaugh; Alumni editor, Emma Jansen; school editor, Helen Krom; athletic editor, John Troy; business manager, Herbert Hughes; assistant business manager, Victor Vaughan, Raymond Van Buren.

A. B. C. MEDIATORS ARE DEADLOCKED

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Mediation Headquarters, Clifton Hotel, Niagara Falls, Ont., June 1.—A deadlock has been reached in the Mexican mediation conferences. This was admitted by Justice Joseph R. Lamar, one of the American delegates, this afternoon.

The deadlock is said to have been caused by the resistance of the Huerta delegates and the "A. B. C." mediators to the admission of a representative of General Carranza to the conferences without the Constitutionalist chief having agreed to an armistice.

The American state department wants the Carranzistas to have a voice in the proceedings, but at their conference with the American delegates today the mediators objected to such action and the conference ended without any such arrangement having been made.

When the Americans left the conference Justice Lamar said:

"We have had a conference in which we continued the discussion of a point about which we had not agreed on Saturday. The matter is still under discussion. We found in our talk that we were not so far apart in our construction of certain phrases and we are still quite hopeful."

REFRIGERATOR
WITH SLATE-STONE SHELVES

Not an imitation. Not an experiment. Not a hollow sham. Not made for a parlor ornament. Not made to suit somebody's fad or fancy. Not made with open joints filled with cement to absorb grease and odors, and make your refrigerator a germ breeder.

But, made for what a real refrigerator is intended for, that is to keep food pure and sweet with the least amount of ice consistent to obtain a perfect circulation of pure, cold, dry air. The inside lining is air-tight; nothing can penetrate back of it to breed disease and germs.

GREENFIELD HOTEL FIRE.

Widely Known Summer Resort Near Ellenville Destroyed on Friday.

Ellenville, June 1.—The large summer hotel of Paul Nichols at Greenfield with entire contents burned to the ground at about 2 o'clock Friday morning and with it the large bowling alley and music hall that stood at a distance. The large barn and cottage and the upper side of the hotel were saved. This well known hotel known as the "Windsor Lake House" was erected about twenty-five years ago on property Mr. Nichols purchased of Addison Stratton and has always been considered with its fine lake on opposite side of the hotel an ideal spot for summer visitors. The building was of the best and furnished throughout of the best and its large grounds and many beautiful shade trees surrounding it was a fine attraction for its guests and entails a heavy loss to the owner. Mr. and Mrs. Nichols occupied winters a cottage on opposite side of hotel and were busy making arrangements to move to the hotel and get it in order for the summer. Painters and paper hangers were at work on the inside. The cause of fire is not known in Ellenville today. Insured but amount not known.

MILTON.

Milton, May 30.—Mr. and Mrs. Edward Anderson have moved into R. W. Hallock's cottage, lately vacated by his son-in-law, Delbert Warren and family, who have moved in Wolfair's cottage in South Milton.

Oscar Lyons of Brooklyn visited his sister, Mrs. William Rhoades, on Sunday.

Gifford Hallock now has the automobile formerly owned by the late George S. Clarke.

The people at Everhoj also have an auto.

Mr. and Mrs. Northrip visited Edward Y. Jenkins at Edgar Harcourt's on Sunday. They found Mr. Jenkins recovering from his recent attack, although still too weak to start on the trip west, which had been planned for some time.

The Rev. Mr. Chasey was in Newburgh on Wednesday.

Mrs. Hamm was expected home from St. Luke's Hospital on Wednesday.

Miss Helen Strong of Poughkeepsie was a guest at R. W. Hallock's this week.

Our people are delighted to see the Mary Powell again. And that reminds us that we miss the Hudson Taylor this summer. It was hoped by our Poughkeepsie shoppers that some boat would take her place.

We were thankful for the little refreshing rain on Wednesday afternoon after the very hot weather.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Cosman of Newburgh are to spend Sunday in Milton.

Walter R. Clarke, who has been ill, is, we are glad to say, about again.

Fred Martin is busy giving a new coat of paint to the J. B. Ball cottage on Watson avenue, now occupied by William Spratt and family.

Mrs. Alice LeFevre Scofield and sister-in-law have returned to their summer home here.

Good Glue.

Nearly every housekeeper who has occasion to use glue for mending articles in the home finds that frequently after the glue dries the article to which it has been applied breaks, tears, or springs apart. This can be remedied if glycerine is added to the glue in proportion of one part glycerine to four parts glue, as the articles mended in this way, "stay mended" indefinitely.

Main Thing.

At the end of a somewhat sweeping peroration the young lady said: "And now, Mrs. Smith, would you not like to have a vote and exercise the privilege of citizenship?" To which, says the Glasgow News, the lady of the scrubbing brush made a typically feminine reply. "I don't know, miss," she said, agitatedly; "what would it cost?"

No Chances for Him.

A dealer selling cloth in a small town asked an Irishman who was passing if he would buy a suit length, and added: "You can have it for ten bob." To which Pat replied: "Begob, sir, if tuppence would buy the makings of a topcoat for an elephant I couldn't buy the makings of a pair of leggings for a canary this minute."

Defined.

A literary genius is one whom nature lets in on the ground floor, and whom the publishers force to live in an attic.

REFRIGERATOR
WITH SLATE-STONE SHELVES

Not an imitation. Not an experiment. Not a hollow sham. Not made for a parlor ornament. Not made to suit somebody's fad or fancy. Not made with open joints filled with cement to absorb grease and odors, and make your refrigerator a germ breeder.

But, made for what a real refrigerator is intended for, that is to keep food pure and sweet with the least amount of ice consistent to obtain a perfect circulation of pure, cold, dry air. The inside lining is air-tight; nothing can penetrate back of it to breed disease and germs.

GREENFIELD HOTEL FIRE.

Widely Known Summer Resort Near Ellenville Destroyed on Friday.

Ellenville, June 1.—The large summer hotel of Paul Nichols at Greenfield with entire contents burned to the ground at about 2 o'clock Friday morning and with it the large bowling alley and music hall that stood at a distance. The large barn and cottage and the upper side of the hotel were saved. This well known hotel known as the "Windsor Lake House" was erected about twenty-five years ago on property Mr. Nichols purchased of Addison Stratton and has always been considered with its fine lake on opposite side of the hotel an ideal spot for summer visitors. The building was of the best and furnished throughout of the best and its large grounds and many beautiful shade trees surrounding it was a fine attraction for its guests and entails a heavy loss to the owner. Mr. and Mrs. Nichols occupied winters a cottage on opposite side of hotel and were busy making arrangements to move to the hotel and get it in order for the summer. Painters and paper hangers were at work on the inside. The cause of fire is not known in Ellenville today. Insured but amount not known.

MILTON.

Milton, May 30.—Mr. and Mrs. Edward Anderson have moved into R. W. Hallock's cottage, lately vacated by his son-in-law, Delbert Warren and family, who have moved in Wolfair's cottage in South Milton.

Oscar Lyons of Brooklyn visited his sister, Mrs. William Rhoades, on Sunday.

Gifford Hallock now has the automobile formerly owned by the late George S. Clarke.

The people at Everhoj also have an auto.

Mr. and Mrs. Northrip visited Edward Y. Jenkins at Edgar Harcourt's on Sunday. They found Mr. Jenkins recovering from his recent attack, although still too weak to start on the trip west, which had been planned for some time.

The Rev. Mr. Chasey was in Newburgh on Wednesday.

Mrs. Hamm was expected home from St. Luke's Hospital on Wednesday.

Miss Helen Strong of Poughkeepsie was a guest at R. W. Hallock's this week.

Our people are delighted to see the Mary Powell again. And that reminds us that we miss the Hudson Taylor this summer. It was hoped by our Poughkeepsie shoppers that some boat would take her place.

We were thankful for the little refreshing rain on Wednesday afternoon after the very hot weather.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Cosman of Newburgh are to spend Sunday in Milton.

Walter R. Clarke, who has been ill, is, we are glad to say, about again.

Fred Martin is busy giving a new coat of paint to the J. B. Ball cottage on Watson avenue, now occupied by William Spratt and family.

Mrs. Alice LeFevre Scofield and sister-in-law have returned to their summer home here.

Good Glue.

Nearly every housekeeper who has occasion to use glue for mending articles in the home finds that frequently after the glue dries the article to which it has been applied breaks, tears, or springs apart. This can be remedied if glycerine is added to the glue in proportion of one part glycerine to four parts glue, as the articles mended in this way, "stay mended" indefinitely.

Main Thing.

At the end of a somewhat sweeping peroration the young lady said: "And now, Mrs. Smith, would you not like to have a vote and exercise the privilege of citizenship?" To which, says the Glasgow News, the lady of the scrubbing brush made a typically feminine reply. "I don't know, miss," she said, agitatedly; "what would it cost?"

No Chances for Him.

A dealer selling cloth in a small town asked an Irishman who was passing if he would buy a suit length, and added: "You can have it for ten bob." To which Pat replied: "Begob, sir, if tuppence would buy the makings of a topcoat for an elephant I couldn't buy the makings of a pair of leggings for a canary this minute."

Defined.

SAVED FROM SIBERIA

A Story of the Russian Revolution

By F. A. MITCHEL

Leaving my comfortable home behind me, my dear father and mother, my brothers and sisters, I set out for St. Petersburg, the headquarters of the revolution, where I became identified with the revolutionary party and did such work as was assigned me. In time my clothing was worn threadbare; I became thin and pale from want of proper nourishment and from the condition of a noble was reduced to that of a serf.

One day I was informed that a young girl who was a prominent worker for the revolution had been caught in a house where bombs were found by the police and had been arrested and thrown into prison. I attended a secret meeting of persons devoted to the cause, convened to take measures to free her. Five hundred rubles were raised to bribe her jailer, and one of our number was appointed to interview him.

In a few days the messenger called us together again and informed us that he had offered the money to the jailer if he would contrive the girl's escape, but the man had said that it would be impossible. He had, however, suggested another plan. If one of our own party would marry the girl he would arrange that the priest who performed the marriage service should antedate the marriage certificate so that when she came up for trial her identity would be lost. It would be supposed that a mistake had been made in her case and the wrong person had been arrested. The jailer agreed to carry out this plan for the 500 rubles.

It was decided to accept his terms. The marriage being simply a form to save the girl from Siberia, no importance was attached to it, and almost any of us bachelors was willing to be the groom. But it was decided that we should draw lots for the service, and the lot fell to me.

I went to the prison, not as a groom going to his bride, but as one going to perform a duty of no especial importance to himself. But my first glance at Marya Ivanovna, or Marya, the daughter of Ivan, changed all this. She was not so very beautiful, but there was in her face the look of a martyr—a look of perfect innocence. She had been told of our plan by the jailer and knew that I had come to marry her. She seemed to consider it a great favor on my part and gave me a look of gratitude that went straight to my heart. We were obliged to wait some time for the priest, and I spent it chatting with my bride. Singular as it may appear, when the priest arrived and married us I kissed my wife with all the fervor of a bridegroom who had married for love.

In a twinkling there had been in me a change of motive. I had entered the prison, as I have said, carelessly to perform a duty to the cause of the revolution. I left it with a burning desire to free my bride and possess her in peace. The incentive of the amelioration of millions of people kept in ignorance and poverty had vanished to give place to a matter of individual selfishness.

Yet was it selfishness? Pity had brought love, not for the millions, but for one. I grant that the former is a broader emotion, but love for the individual is not less divine.

At any rate, it seemed to me that I had stepped back to take a new start on a new foundation; that, whereas I had been standing on a vast plain too large for my diminutive power to cultivate, I now stood on my own little plat. The sympathy I had for my downtrodden brethren had become concentrated upon one poor girl in prison.

I rejoined my comrades for a different purpose from that with which I had left them. But I took care not to reveal to them the change that had come over me. I continued to do any duty that was assigned me, but all the while I was thinking of some plan by which I might hasten the release of Marya Ivanovna. There is no habeas corpus in Russia, and a prisoner, innocent or guilty, may remain for years in prison without being brought to trial. The thought of my wife thus wearing out her life behind bars was maddening to me. I went to the prison to see her and to talk with her, but the sight of her sad, pale face so distressed me that, realizing I needed all the coolness that was in me to work for her liberation, I did not go again. Then I settled down to plan in her behalf.

Marya Ivanovna had been in prison but a short time when we were married. Therefore, if I should call the attention of the authorities to her case, she would be remembered, and the plan of losing her identity might fail. I did not on this account dare take such a course—at least, not without waiting. That there was no other had already been demonstrated. The jailer had said that he could not contrive to permit the prisoner to escape. But that was because the money appropriated for the purpose was no more than enough for himself. Might he not, if supplied with sufficient funds to bribe others in the chain of government officials concerned in the matter, be able to accomplish the desired result?

I went to him and asked him this question. He replied that it was possible, but the amount required for the purpose would be considerable. When I asked him how much he said that he would have to investigate, and, considering my shabby appearance and the improbability of my raising any large fund, I did not believe that he would trouble himself in the matter. However, I had a plan by which I might probably raise the amount required, and when I revealed it to him he changed his manner and, I felt confident, would sound those who must be bribed.

Within a week he sent for me and told me that in order to procure Marya Ivanovna's escape it would be necessary to bribe five different persons, including himself; that one of these was an official of importance and could only be bought for a considerable sum. In short, 2,000 rubles would be required to put the scheme through. I left him and immediately started for my father's home in Smolensk.

So shabby was my appearance that when I entered the gate the dogs barked at me, and I was ordered away by one of the servants. But I paid no attention to either of these and, going to the front door, opened it, and there stood my mother in the hall. She recognized me and fell into my arms. I told her that I had come home to make a request of my father and if he would grant it I would agree never again to commit any overt act in favor of the revolution. The boon I asked was the money to free my wife.

My mother used her influence with my father to induce him to grant the request, he fearing that I was already so far entangled with the law as to compromise the rest of the family, would only consent on condition that I would leave Russia and not return. I cared to do this only in case I could get Marya to go with me. So I returned to the capital—with means for my temporary necessities given me by my mother—and held a conference with my wife.

Her health was breaking down under her confinement, and it was not probable that she could ever strike another blow for the cause of the revolution. Besides, my interest in her behalf had already won her heart. This last act of devotion served to make it completely mine. She consented to my plan only too gladly, and I left her with high hope for her speedy release and our future happiness in a foreign land.

Returning to my home, I completed the arrangement with my father, receiving 5,000 rubles in lieu of my share in his estate, and returned to St. Petersburg. There I set my friends of the revolutionary propaganda to work to forge passports for myself and my wife on which to leave Russia. At this work we had several experienced hands, and I was not long in securing the necessary documents. Then when all had been made ready I went to the jailer, showed him the money he asked to free my wife and gave him half with a promise of the other half when Marya should be delivered to me.

How he accomplished his work I never have learned, but infer that he bribed those who were a check upon him to wink at certain irregularities, and forged papers probably assisted in the work. Marya was released at 2 o'clock in the morning, and by arrangement I was near the prison with a carriage. I put her in without a word and, having directed the cabman to drive to the railway station, got in after her and closed the door.

Then, locked in each other's arms, we experienced inexpressible delight.

We selected America for our destination and in due time arrived at our new home. I, having been well educated, have found no difficulty in making a living in the United States, though until I learned to speak the language I was at a great disadvantage. Already, having an excellent manager for a wife, I am becoming prosperous.

The Russian revolution is over, many a young life has been taken, many are perpetual exiles, and yet little was accomplished. But though the people have lost their cause they have not been put back to the point from which they started. They have made their first dash for liberty, and as the north pole of the earth was gained after a number of dashes so doubtless will a greater freedom eventually be gained in Russia.

No Lamp.

SAVED FROM SIBERIA

A Story of the Russian Revolution

By F. A. MITCHEL

Leaving my comfortable home behind me, my dear father and mother, my brothers and sisters, I set out for St. Petersburg, the headquarters of the revolution, where I became identified with the revolutionary party and did such work as was assigned me. In time my clothing was worn threadbare; I became thin and pale from want of proper nourishment and from the condition of a noble was reduced to that of a serf.

One day I was informed that a young girl who was a prominent worker for the revolution had been caught in a house where bombs were found by the police and had been arrested and thrown into prison. I attended a secret meeting of persons devoted to the cause, convened to take measures to free her. Five hundred rubles were raised to bribe her jailer, and one of our number was appointed to interview him.

In a few days the messenger called us together again and informed us that he had offered the money to the jailer if he would contrive the girl's escape, but the man had said that it would be impossible. He had, however, suggested another plan. If one of our own party would marry the girl he would arrange that the priest who performed the marriage service should antedate the marriage certificate so that when she came up for trial her identity would be lost. It would be supposed that a mistake had been made in her case and the wrong person had been arrested. The jailer agreed to carry out this plan for the 500 rubles.

It was decided to accept his terms. The marriage being simply a form to save the girl from Siberia, no importance was attached to it, and almost any of us bachelors was willing to be the groom. But it was decided that we should draw lots for the service, and the lot fell to me.

I went to the prison, not as a groom going to his bride, but as one going to perform a duty of no especial importance to himself. But my first glance at Marya Ivanovna, or Marya, the daughter of Ivan, changed all this. She was not so very beautiful, but there was in her face the look of a martyr—a look of perfect innocence. She had been told of our plan by the jailer and knew that I had come to marry her. She seemed to consider it a great favor on my part and gave me a look of gratitude that went straight to my heart. We were obliged to wait some time for the priest, and I spent it chatting with my bride. Singular as it may appear, when the priest arrived and married us I kissed my wife with all the fervor of a bridegroom who had married for love.

In a twinkling there had been in me a change of motive. I had entered the prison, as I have said, carelessly to perform a duty to the cause of the revolution. I left it with a burning desire to free my bride and possess her in peace. The incentive of the amelioration of millions of people kept in ignorance and poverty had vanished to give place to a matter of individual selfishness.

Yet was it selfishness? Pity had brought love, not for the millions, but for one. I grant that the former is a broader emotion, but love for the individual is not less divine.

At any rate, it seemed to me that I had stepped back to take a new start on a new foundation; that, whereas I had been standing on a vast plain too large for my diminutive power to cultivate, I now stood on my own little plat. The sympathy I had for my downtrodden brethren had become concentrated upon one poor girl in prison.

I rejoined my comrades for a different purpose from that with which I had left them. But I took care not to reveal to them the change that had come over me. I continued to do any duty that was assigned me, but all the while I was thinking of some plan by which I might hasten the release of Marya Ivanovna. There is no habeas corpus in Russia, and a prisoner, innocent or guilty, may remain for years in prison without being brought to trial. The thought of my wife thus wearing out her life behind bars was maddening to me. I went to the prison to see her and to talk with her, but the sight of her sad, pale face so distressed me that, realizing I needed all the coolness that was in me to work for her liberation, I did not go again. Then I settled down to plan in her behalf.

Marya Ivanovna had been in prison but a short time when we were married. Therefore, if I should call the attention of the authorities to her case, she would be remembered, and the plan of losing her identity might fail. I did not on this account dare take such a course—at least, not without waiting. That there was no other had already been demonstrated. The jailer had said that he could not contrive to permit the prisoner to escape. But that was because the money appropriated for the purpose was no more than enough for himself. Might he not, if supplied with sufficient funds to bribe others in the chain of government officials concerned in the matter, be able to accomplish the desired result?

I went to him and asked him this question. He replied that it was possible, but the amount required for the purpose would be considerable. When I asked him how much he said that he would have to investigate, and, considering my shabby appearance and the improbability of my raising any large fund, I did not believe that he would trouble himself in the matter. However, I had a plan by which I might probably raise the amount required, and when I revealed it to him he changed his manner and, I felt confident, would sound those who must be bribed.

Within a week he sent for me and told me that in order to procure Marya Ivanovna's escape it would be necessary to bribe five different persons, including himself; that one of these was an official of importance and could only be bought for a considerable sum. In short, 2,000 rubles would be required to put the scheme through. I left him and immediately started for my father's home in Smolensk.

So shabby was my appearance that when I entered the gate the dogs barked at me, and I was ordered away by one of the servants. But I paid no attention to either of these and, going to the front door, opened it, and there stood my mother in the hall. She recognized me and fell into my arms. I told her that I had come home to make a request of my father and if he would grant it I would agree never again to commit any overt act in favor of the revolution. The boon I asked was the money to free my wife.

My mother used her influence with my father to induce him to grant the request, for he, fearing that I was already so far entangled with the law as to compromise the rest of the family, would only consent on condition that I would leave Russia and not return. I cared to do this only in case I could get Marya to go with me. So I returned to the capital—with means for my temporary necessities given me by my mother—and held a conference with my wife.

Her health was breaking down under her confinement, and it was not probable that she could ever strike another blow for the cause of the revolution. Besides, my interest in her behalf had already won her heart. This last act of devotion served to make it completely mine. She consented to my plan only too gladly, and I left her with high hope for her speedy release and our future happiness in a foreign land.

Returning to my home, I completed the arrangement with my father, receiving 5,000 rubles in lieu of my share in his estate, and returned to St. Petersburg. There I set my friends of the revolutionary propaganda to work to forge passports for myself and my wife on which to leave Russia. At this work we had several experienced hands, and I was not long in securing the necessary documents. Then when all had been made ready I went to the jailer, showed him the money he asked to free my wife and gave him half with a promise of the other half when Marya should be delivered to me.

How he accomplished his work I never have learned, but infer that he bribed those who were a check upon him to wink at certain irregularities, and forged papers probably assisted in the work. Marya was released at 2 o'clock in the morning, and by arrangement I was near the prison with a carriage. I put her in without a word and, having directed the cabman to drive to the railway station, got in after her and closed the door.

Then, locked in each other's arms, we experienced inexpressible delight.

We selected America for our destination and in due time arrived at our new home. I, having been well educated, have found no difficulty in making a living in the United States, though until I learned to speak the language I was at a great disadvantage. Already, having an excellent manager for a wife, I am becoming prosperous.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JUNE 1, 1914.

While the despatches from Niagara Falls continue to be optimistic, it looks from this distance as though the mediators had become as unimportant as a fly on a wagon wheel. Gen. Villa has addressed an "open letter to the American people," in which he declares that he will keep on fighting, no matter what happens, until he has driven from the country not only Huerta, but his whole party. It is quite likely that he will succeed, too. Then who is going to fire that salute which we went to war about? President Wilson has announced that he will insist upon such a settlement of Mexican affairs as will prevent further insurrections, but Carranza, who now calls himself Provisional President, says that Mexicans will not tolerate any foreign meddling with their internal affairs. Will our President back down from his high and lofty position? He probably realizes now the truth of the proverb that "as he that taketh a dog by the ears, so is he that passeth by in anger, and meddleth with another man's quarrel."

From time to time we hear advocacy of the changing of the course of the Gulf Stream in order to improve the climate of a considerable portion of the Northern hemisphere. The project has several times been seriously considered in Congress. Now comes a Canadian engineer with a proposition to make the climate of Canada much warmer by rebuilding the Rocky Mountains. He claims to have found out the cause of the warm winds known as "chinooks," and says that they can be multiplied and intensified by altering the mountain conformation. Such propositions as these are greeted with more laughter than sober attention—such being the fate of all new and strange ideas. Nevertheless, it is not impossible that man will yet succeed in making over weather conditions. Some of the astronomers assure us that the inhabitants of Mars have transformed their planet by means of canals of gigantic dimensions, which enable them to live under naturally impossible conditions. Profiting by their example, the inhabitants of earth may not wait to make improvements until forced to do so.

Colonel Roosevelt is now on his way to Spain and until he returns a few weeks hence nothing definite will be decided regarding the Bull Moose program in this State. It is evident, however, from such information as has come from Oyster Bay that there will be no Progressive candidate for Governor this year. The fact that there are 520,000 enrolled Republicans in this State, while the enrolled Progressives number only 111,000, proves the impossibility of electing any Progressive, and there is a strong probability that the Republicans would win even if there were a third party candidate. That would at once put the Bull Moose outfit in the same class with the Prohibitionists and Independence Leaguers, leaving "Teddy" stranded politically. He is one of the shrewdest of politicians and perceives that his best play is to join forces with the Republicans. Of course, he wants to "save his face," as the Chinese say, and so he and his satellites are giving out interviews demanding that the Republican candidate be an anti-Barnes man in order to get their support. This kind of talk is so extremely impudent that one is prevented by laughter from growing indignant. We predict that the Progressives will find that the Republican nominee, whoever he may be, is a good enough anti-Barnes man for them. They have got to swallow whatever dose is handed them or lose their political lives.

There was a wild time in Tarrytown Sunday night when a mob of anarchists and I. W. W. leaders went there from New York to "test the right of free speech." The circumstance that many of them were lodged in jail while others were badly beaten up by the police has, of course, convinced them that their rights were denied. This comes of a misunderstanding as to the meaning of free speech as guaranteed by the Constitution. Free speech is a part of liberty and must be exercised in the same way. Every man has liberty to do as he pleases, with the restriction that he must not injure any other individual or society in general. But for this limitation liberty would be unbridled licence. Free speech does not mean that a man can stand forth on a public square and indulge in profanity and obscenity, or that he can incite to crime, or that he can persecute any citizen. If John D. Rockefeller is a bad man there is a legal way to reach him; or, if there is not, it is allowable to advocate such an amendment of the laws as will make it feasible to punish him. It is not allowable under any circumstances to stir up the populace to punish a man who has not been found guilty of any offence against the law. Lynch law and liberty cannot exist together.

EMANCIPATION FOR HUSBANDS.

(By Our Woman Editor.)

And so husbands are seeking emancipation!

Well, some of us are glad to learn that they are, in a few little ways, at least.

In the good old days of long ago, husbands were held legally responsible for the misdeeds of their wives, just as they were if their cattle strayed away and injured or destroyed their neighbors' property. If a wife voluntarily let her temper run away with herself and her judgment and committed a grievous assault upon another, in the eyes of the law it did not matter at all, so far as she was concerned; but legal vengeance was summarily wreaked upon the poor, innocent husband, who may have cautioned and cautioned her against the outbreak. Poor man! Protection was costly for him when it happened to assume that phase.

But now, as has been prophesied rather frequently, women are losing some of their moss-grown "privileges," at least, it looks that way.

The last California legislature freed husbands from the responsibility of standing sponsor for their wives when they break the peace and of bearing the penalties imposed, and under the law now, victims of belligerent wives must look to the women themselves for redress, for husbands are as irresponsible as in the days of their free bachelorhood.

And so much for the equality of rights.

But that is not all, for along comes Arizona, likewise determining that it is a grievous injustice to inflict upon husbands punishment for their wives' wrong-doing. You see, one excitable woman in Arizona went to the strenuous length of assaulting another for some grievance, real or fancied, and when the vanquished one brought suit for damages the grave question arose—was the husband of the assailant liable? He vigorously objected to the battle and was not even within seeing distance when the fray was going on.

The lower court carefully reviewed the newer provisions of law affecting the property rights of the married woman, her right to contract debts for herself and her children on her husband's credit and that other statute granting her the same legal rights as are extended to men, including the right of suffrage, and it decided that the husband was not liable any longer when a wife fell into trouble of that violent sort.

The case was carried into the supreme court and there was unanimity of judicial opinion that since the husband has been deprived of all right to the property of the wife and to the control of her person and her time, it would be adding insult to injury to hold him still responsible for her conduct; or, in the words of the court, "every principle of right would be violated." So long as he was entitled to her property and her industry and had power to direct and contral her, there was reason for his liability, so the court held—but the reason had ceased, and now "her brain and hands are her own."

In other words, the court wisely holds that "sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander, too."

And one cheerfully echoes its ruling.

But those antiquated laws—aren't they ridiculous?

It does seem that it would be well for the state powers that be, from the "sunny Southland" to Northland, and from the gates of the East to those of the West to sit down calmly and reflectively and in the light of modern years proceed to wipe off the slate forever laws that reflect mighty discredit upon the civilization under which they were passed.

It is true enough that the law making husbands liable for damages inflicted by wives is a preposterous injustice, all things being equal; but when the law was created things were far away from equal. Quite likely it was an outgrowth of the bad old days when the law counted husbands rulers over all. Giving them power supreme, of course, it must likewise impose responsibilities.

But now, emancipation has come all around—and 'tis well.

Laying Bridge Floors.

The most interesting and dangerous looking stage in the construction of a suspension bridge is the building of the floor, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. In this work the builders have nothing to rest their work on and must build out each way from the towers, securing the floor piece by piece to the heavy steel bars suspended from the main cables far above. The work is done with derricks that are equipped with booms long enough to reach out ahead of the finished structure and hold the girders suspended while they are being riveted in place. As each section of the floor is completed the derricks are moved ahead and the construction of the next section is begun.

He Was the Whole Cabinet.

The record concentration of office into a single hand was achieved by the Duke of Wellington in 1834, when William IV. suddenly parted with his Whig ministers. Sir Robert Peel, who was to form the new ministry, was in Rome, and it took between three and four weeks for the king's messenger to reach him and for him to return, traveling almost continuously night and day. In the meantime Wellington was practically the entire government. He really held the offices only of first lord of the treasury and home secretary, but any one of the secretaries of state can perform the duties of any other or all of them, and this Wellington actually did.—Westminster Gazette.

The Ambiguous Phonetic.

Phonetic spelling has many recommendations, but if you spell by speech and ear you may print ambiguously. For instance, Mr. Escott, in his "Club Makers and Club Members," gives the history of White's club "till it reached its present proprietor and analyst." Now "annalist" and "analyst" are pronounced alike, but printing would lose in clearness if they were spelled alike. —London Standard.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JUNE 1, 1914.

While the despatches from Niagara Falls continue to be optimistic, it looks from this distance as though the mediators had become as unimportant as a fly on a wagon wheel. Gen. Villa has addressed an "open letter to the American people," in which he declares that he will keep on fighting, no matter what happens, until he has driven from the country not only Huerta, but his whole party. It is quite likely that he will succeed, too. Then who is going to fire that salute which we went to war about? President Wilson has announced that he will insist upon such a settlement of Mexican affairs as will prevent further insurrections, but Carranza, who now calls himself Provisional President, says that Mexicans will not tolerate any foreign meddling with their internal affairs. Will our President back down from his high and lofty position? He probably realizes now the truth of the proverb that "as he that taketh a dog by the ears, so is he that passeth by in anger, and meddleth with another man's quarrel."

From time to time we hear advocacy of the changing of the course of the Gulf Stream in order to improve the climate of a considerable portion of the Northern hemisphere. The project has several times been seriously considered in Congress. Now comes a Canadian engineer with a proposition to make the climate of Canada much warmer by rebuilding the Rocky Mountains. He claims to have found out the cause of the warm winds known as "chinooks," and says that they can be multiplied and intensified by altering the mountain conformation. Such propositions as these are greeted with more laughter than sober attention—such being the fate of all new and strange ideas. Nevertheless, it is not impossible that man will yet succeed in making over weather conditions. Some of the astronomers assure us that the inhabitants of Mars have transformed their planet by means of canals of gigantic dimensions, which enable them to live under naturally impossible conditions. Profiting by their example, the inhabitants of earth may not wait to make improvements until forced to do so.

Colonel Roosevelt is now on his way to Spain and until he returns a few weeks hence nothing definite will be decided regarding the Bull Moose program in this State. It is evident, however, from such information as has come from Oyster Bay that there will be no Progressive candidate for Governor this year. The fact that there are 520,000 enrolled Republicans in this State, while the enrolled Progressives number only 111,000, proves the impossibility of electing any Progressive, and there is a strong probability that the Republicans would win even if there were a third party candidate. That would at once put the Bull Moose outfit in the same class with the Prohibitionists and Independence Leaguers, leaving "Teddy" stranded politically. He is one of the shrewdest of politicians and perceives that his best play is to join forces with the Republicans. Of course, he wants to "save his face," as the Chinese say, and so he and his satellites are giving out interviews demanding that the Republican candidate be an anti-Barnes man in order to get their support. This kind of talk is so extremely impudent that one is prevented by laughter from growing indignant. We predict that the Progressives will find that the Republican nominee, whoever he may be, is a good enough anti-Barnes man for them. They have got to swallow whatever dose is handed them or lose their political lives.

There was a wild time in Tarrytown Sunday night when a mob of anarchists and I. W. W. leaders went there from New York to "test the right of free speech." The circumstance that many of them were lodged in jail while others were badly beaten up by the police has, of course, convinced them that their rights were denied. This comes of a misunderstanding as to the meaning of free speech as guaranteed by the Constitution. Free speech is a part of liberty and must be exercised in the same way. Every man has liberty to do as he pleases, with the restriction that he must not injure any other individual or society in general. But for this limitation liberty would be unbridled licence. Free speech does not mean that a man can stand forth on a public square and indulge in profanity and obscenity, or that he can incite to crime, or that he can persecute any citizen. If John D. Rockefeller is a bad man there is a legal way to reach him; or, if there is not, it is allowable to advocate such an amendment of the laws as will make it feasible to punish him. It is not allowable under any circumstances to stir up the populace to punish a man who has not been found guilty of any offence against the law. Lynch law and liberty cannot exist together.

EMANCIPATION FOR HUSBANDS.

(By Our Woman Editor.)

And so husbands are seeking emancipation!

Well, some of us are glad to learn that they are, in a few little ways, at least.

In the good old days of long ago, husbands were held legally responsible for the misdeeds of their wives, just as they were if their cattle strayed away and injured or destroyed their neighbors' property. If a wife voluntarily let her temper run away with herself and her judgment and committed a grievous assault upon another, in the eyes of the law it did not matter at all, so far as she was concerned; but legal vengeance was summarily wreaked upon the poor, innocent husband, who may have cautioned and cautioned her against the outbreak. Poor man! Protection was costly for him when it happened to assume that phase.

But now, as has been prophesied rather frequently, women are losing some of their moss-grown "privileges," at least, it looks that way.

The last California legislature freed husbands from the responsibility of standing sponsor for their wives when they break the peace and of bearing the penalties imposed, and under the law now, victims of belligerent wives must look to the women themselves for redress, for husbands are as irresponsible as in the days of their free bachelorhood.

But that is not all, for along comes Arizona, likewise determining that it is a grievous injustice to inflict upon husbands punishment for their wives' wrong-doing. You see, one excitable woman in Arizona went to the strenuous length of assaulting another for some grievance, real or fancied, and when the vanquished one brought suit for damages the grave question arose—was the husband of the assailant liable? He vigorously objected to the battle and was not even within seeing distance when the fray was going on.

The case was carried into the supreme court and there was unanimity of judicial opinion that since the husband has been deprived of all right to the property of the wife and to the control of her person and her time, it would be adding insult to injury to hold him still responsible for her conduct; or, in the words of the court, "every principle of right would be violated." So long as he was entitled to her property and her industry and had power to direct and contral her, there was reason for his liability, so the court held—but the reason had ceased, and now "her brain and hands are her own."

And one cheerfully echoes its ruling.

Woman's World

Miss Alice Beckington, Who Paints Wonderful Portraits on Ivory.

MISS ALICE BECKINGTON.

The woman who succeeds greatly does so by striking out a new way for herself. Whether one paints pictures or designs gowns this holds true. Possibly it may be rather more difficult to achieve originality in painting than in other work. At any rate, America can point with pride to a small group of brilliant women who have accomplished this in the face of difficulties.

One of these is Miss Alice Beckington of New York, who paints portraits on ivory. Her special excellence is said to be in the delineation of elderly persons, her old ladies having the rare loveliness and her old gentlemen the seasoned courtliness that made the miniatures of Malabone and Isabey famous. Besides this, she has the faculty of painting character—a much more difficult feat, as any artist will tell you, than the mere portraying of beauty.

Miss Beckington belongs to a little group of American artists who have been making history. They are known as the miniature secessionists, and through their efforts the art of miniature painting has been revolutionized. Instead of being conventional copyists, as are most of the English miniaturists, or painters of candy box loveliness like those of the French school, the Americans are style creators, each as individual in his or her way as any idealist on canvas. Their miniature portraits are painted directly from life, and they have the talent and insight to make their creations real works of art.

Recognizing this new school and American pre-eminence the Metropolitan Museum of Art has just purchased specimens of the work of five of the leading miniature artists of America and will add them to the famous collection in its galleries. It must be gratifying to feminists to know that all the artists so honored are women. Among them is Miss Beckington, who was one of the founders of the American Society of Miniature Painters. Those who admire Whistler's famous portrait of his mother say that Miss Beckington's miniature, "My Mother," which has been purchased by the museum, is an equally worthy if less pretentious masterpiece.

One finds in this gifted woman a singularly unaffected and modest personality. At her studio in the Carnegie building or at her summer home at Scituate, Mass., she is equally devoted to her art. She has painted many prominent people and received many honors in the way of medals and honorable mention at exhibitions both here and abroad. She is a member of the American Society of Miniature Painters, the Society of American Artists and the National Academy of Design.

A woman of wide culture, her interest is by no means restricted to the profession in which she excels. Her first art training was received at the Art Students' league, where she is now an instructor in miniature painting. She has studied abroad under various masters and at the celebrated Academie Julien of Paris. Unlike most miniature artists Miss Beckington works without the aid of a glass, her eyes being very quick and keen.

The other artists who are included in the group honored by the museum are Mrs. Lucia Fairchilds Fuller, Miss Helen M. Turner, Miss Margaret Foote Hawley and Miss Laura Hills of Boston, all of them excelling in various ways in the exquisite miniature art which, after almost a century of neglect, is again enjoying a deserved revival of popularity.

An Egg Shampoo.

A good egg shampoo may be made as follows: To half a cake of pure white castile soap add a pint of hot rainwater. Set on the stove and beat until the soap is perfectly dissolved. To this add an egg which has been thoroughly whipped with an egg beater, stirring it into the mixture with the beater to prevent curdling. Add one-third of a teaspoonful of borax and a teaspoonful of alcohol to preserve the shampoo. When ready to shampoo the hair rub well into the scalp and rinse in several clear waters, using a bath spray if you have one.

Judge Not.

Men have commonly more pleasure in the criticism which hurts than in that which is innocuous, and are more tolerant of the severity which breaks hearts than of that which falls impotently on the grave.—Ruskin.

The Yale Two-Speed Has Made Sidecars Practical

A Motorcycle without a practical, efficient two-speed gear could not be expected to handle a sidecar satisfactorily, for the added weight made the hard pulls of starting, driving over bad roads, climbing steep hills, etc., too much for the old style single-geared kind of motorcycle. But the

Two-Speed Yale Motorcycle

OPENED A WIDE NEW FIELD OF USEFULNESS AND PLEASURE by providing ABILITY TO HANDLE A SIDECAR EFFECTIVELY. With a sidecar on the "Big Y" you can start quickly and easily from a standstill—STEP ON THE LOW-SPEED PEDAL, JUST AS IN An AUTOMOBILE, and glide away. No matter how rough or crooked the road, or how steep the hills it ascends, the Two-Speed Yale with sidecar FORGES STEADILY and COMFORTABLY FORWARD, never hesitating or faltering.

You can't expect satisfaction with a sidecar unless you have the BEST TWO-SPEED. And you CAN'T FIND A TWO-SPEED EQUAL TO THE YALE. The natural thing for you to do is to get a Two-Speed Yale and sidecar, but—unless you get your order in quickly you may have to wait, for there are many names on the books ahead of you.

Woman's World

The woman who succeeds greatly does so by striking out a new way for herself. Whether one paints pictures or designs gowns this holds true. Possibly it may be rather more difficult to achieve originality in painting than in other work. At any rate, America can point with pride to a small group of brilliant women who have accomplished this in the face of difficulties.

One of these is Miss Alice Beckington of New York, who paints portraits on ivory. Her special excellence is said to be in the delineation of elderly persons, her old ladies having the rare loveliness and her old gentlemen the seasoned courtliness that made the miniatures of Malabone and Isabey famous. Besides this, she has the faculty of painting character—a much more difficult feat, as any artist will tell you, than the mere portraying of beauty.

Miss Beckington belongs to a little group of American artists who have been making history. They are known as the miniature secessionists, and through their efforts the art of miniature painting has been revolutionized. Instead of being conventional copyists, as are most of the English miniaturists, or painters of candy box loveliness like those of the French school, the Americans are style creators, each as individual in his or her way as any idealist on canvas. Their miniature portraits are painted directly from life, and they have the talent and insight to make their creations real works of art.

Recognizing this new school and American pre-eminence the Metropolitan Museum of Art has just purchased specimens of the work of five of the leading miniature artists of America and will add them to the famous collection in its galleries. It must be gratifying to feminists to know that all the artists so honored are women. Among them is Miss Beckington, who was one of the founders of the American Society of Miniature Painters. Those who admire Whistler's famous portrait of his mother say that Miss Beckington's miniature, "My Mother," which has been purchased by the museum, is an equally worthy if less pretentious masterpiece.

One finds in this gifted woman a singularly unaffected and modest personality. At her studio in the Carnegie building or at her summer home at Scituate, Mass., she is equally devoted to her art. She has painted many prominent people and received many honors in the way of medals and honorable mention at exhibitions both here and abroad. She is a member of the American Society of Miniature Painters, the Society of American Artists and the National Academy of Design.

A woman of wide culture, her interest is by no means restricted to the profession in which she excels. Her first art training was received at the Art Students' league, where she is now an instructor in miniature painting. She has studied abroad under various masters and at the celebrated Academie Julien of Paris. Unlike most miniature artists Miss Beckington works without the aid of a glass, her eyes being very quick and keen.

The other artists who are included in the group honored by the museum are Mrs. Lucia Fairchilds Fuller, Miss Helen M. Turner, Miss Margaret Foote Hawley and Miss Laura Hills of Boston, all of them excelling in various ways in the exquisite miniature art which, after almost a century of neglect, is again enjoying a deserved revival of popularity.

An Egg Shampoo.

A good egg shampoo may be made as follows: To half a cake of pure white castile soap add a pint of hot rainwater. Set on the stove and beat until the soap is perfectly dissolved. To this add an egg which has been thoroughly whipped with an egg beater, stirring it into the mixture with the beater to prevent curdling. Add one-third of a teaspoonful of borax and a teaspoonful of alcohol to preserve the shampoo. When ready to shampoo the hair rub well into the scalp and rinse in several clear waters, using a bath spray if you have one.

Judge Not.

Men have commonly more pleasure in the criticism which hurts than in that which is innocuous, and are more tolerant of the severity which breaks hearts than of that which falls impotently on the grave.—Ruskin.

Your Convenience
Is the foundation principle of the
Smith Premier Typewriter

Take for example one feature—the Interchangeable Carriages and Platens. On the average typewriter there is no changing of platens and the changing of the carriage is almost a job for a mechanic. On the Smith Premier Typewriter either is as quick and simple as changing your hat. This means that the operator can get out a rush telegram or change in a second to any other work without disturbing what she has already done.

Then there is the tilting platen, for ease in making corrections, the one stroke, and one stroke only, in printing every character, and a dozen other special Smith Premier features. All of these mean the convenience of your operator—in other words more efficient service for YOU.

We have an illustrated booklet on the Smith Premier special features which we shall be glad to send on your request.

The Yale Two-Speed Has Made Sidecars Practical

A Motorcycle without a practical, efficient two-speed gear could not be expected to handle a sidecar satisfactorily, for the added weight made the hard pulls of starting, driving over bad roads, climbing steep hills, etc., too much for the old style single-geared kind of motorcycle. But the

OPENED A WIDE NEW FIELD OF USEFULNESS AND PLEASURE by providing ABILITY TO HANDLE A SIDECAR EFFECTIVELY. With a sidecar on the "Big Y" you can start quickly and easily from a standstill—STEP ON THE LOW-SPEED PEDAL, JUST AS IN An AUTOMOBILE, and glide away. No matter how rough or crooked the road, or how steep the hills it ascends, the Two-Speed Yale with sidecar FORGES STEADILY and COMFORTABLY FORWARD, never hesitating or faltering.

You can't expect satisfaction with a sidecar unless you have the BEST TWO-SPEED. And you CAN'T FIND A TWO-SPEED EQUAL TO THE YALE. The natural thing for you to do is to get a Two-Speed Yale and sidecar, but—unless you get your order in quickly you may have to wait, for there are many names on the books ahead of you.

Find out at this store all the details about the YALE SIDECAR, or write for catalog with pictures of it.

Better Let Her Cry.

A woman is almost as peculiar as a man. She will break into tears, and the more she is urged to cheer up the more she will cry. But if some one tells her to go ahead and shed as many tears as she pleases, she will at once quit crying and speak her mind.—Atchison Globe.

His Good Deed.

"What good deed did you perform today?" the first class scout was asked. "Mother had only enough castor oil for one dose, so I let my sister take it," replied the hero.—Buffalo Express.

WEST HURLEY M. E. CHURCH DEDICATED

The dedication services of the West Hurley M. E. Church were held on Sunday morning and afternoon and were largely attended. At the morning service the dedication sermon was preached by the Rev. Dr. T. H. Baragwanath, superintendent of the Kingston district, and in the afternoon the Revs. S. Bullen, J. N. Bohlman and I. G. Price, former pastors, delivered short and appropriate addresses. At the morning service R. W. Gausmann of Brown's Station sang two solos and at the afternoon service Mrs. E. T. Byles rendered two selections. The services were of a deeply religious character and were very impressive.

The new church is located near the Woodstock station of the Ulster & Delaware Railroad and is about two miles from the old site in the village of West Hurley. The auditorium is large and the Sunday school room is connected with the auditorium with rolling doors that can be moved back to increase the sitting capacity of the church. In the rear is a large and well equipped kitchen where the ladies of the church can prepare the church dinners. The old bell in the church which was torn down by New York city has been installed in the new edifice. The building has a large cellar with a furnace and the church is heated with hot air.

The pastor in charge is the Rev. E. T. Byles, who also serves the Ashokan and Glenford Churches. Church services will be held every Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock in the new church by Mr. Byles.

New M. E. Church at West Hurley.

EVENING SERVICE ON MEMORIAL DAY

On Saturday evening Pratt Post, No. 127, Grand Army of the Republic, and Colonial Camp, No. 75, Spanish War Veterans, held a joint memorial service at the armory which was largely attended. The veterans were disappointed in not being able to get the films depicting the life of the martyred president, Abraham Lincoln, and another had to be substituted. The Hon. Joseph M. Fowler, patriotic instructor of Colonial Camp, presided at the exercises and rousing national airs were rendered by the Colonial City Band. Mayor Canfield delivered a stirring address, as did Major James H. Everett. County Attorney John W. Eckert was also one of the speakers of the evening. Comrade Irving B. Wood, of Colonial Camp, blew taps at the close of the program.

Fined $25.

John Egner was arrested on Saturday night by Policeman Ryan for being drunk and disorderly on North Front street. He was arraigned this morning before Recorder Grogan and pleaded not guilty. After the officer had told his story defendant was found guilty and sentenced to pay a fine of $25.

Dr. O'Meara Resumes Practice.

Dr. Mark O'Meara, who was injured in an automobile accident about two weeks ago, has been at his home on Broadway for several days and is now attending to his practice as usual. His injured leg has been put in a plaster cast so that he can move around. On Sunday he made an automobile trip to Pine Hill and return without any apparent injury.

DEDICATION OF ST. MARY'S SCHOOL

Immense crowds attended the exercises at St. Mary's Church and school hall on Sunday afternoon when the dedication of the new school building took place. Religious services were held in the church first at which the school children were present and the chancel was filled with a score or more of clergymen. Then the procession started, headed by Michael J. Rafferty as marshal.

At the lead was the Colonial City Band, followed by the men of St. Mary's Church, the school children, all the girls being dressed in white and carrying American flags; the Knights of Columbus, Holy Name Societies of St. Mary's Church and St. Peter's Church, the Polish societies of the Church of the Immaculate Conception giving a dash of color to the procession with their arms and brilliant uniforms. The Peter Barmann fife, drum and bugle corps led this division of the parade. A long line of automobiles brought up the rear and contained the clergymen.

The parade marched from the church to McEntee street, to Wurts street, to Abeel street, to Broadway, to the hall. Here the officiant, the Right Rev. Mgr. Mooney, V. G., assisted by the Rev. Mallick J. Fitzpatrick and the Rev. J. H. Briody blessed the walls of the building and also the inside of the building. Inside the hall there was not a vacant chair by the time the services started.

The Rev. John J. Hickey, rector of the church, presided and spoke of the great satisfaction to pastor and congregation that the work was about completed. He spoke of the great sacrifices made by the parishioners and stated that there now remained but $18,000 to pay on the school and he hoped with the cooperation of all to have the school free from debt within a year. This was met with hearty applause from the congregation and clergy present. Father Hickey paid high tributes to Mgr. Riley of Schenectady and Mgr. Mooney, the latter being claimed by St. Mary's parish where he received his early education although he was a native of Pennsylvania.

After a selection by the choir Mgr. Riley was introduced and proved an eloquent and witty speaker. He spoke of the magnificent achievement of the parish in building the fine school and said he considered it an honor to be present on this occasion. The work of the Catholic church in preparing the young for their duties in after life was spoken of by Mgr. Riley. Although down on the program for a sermon he preferred to take a course between "so as not to offend either side." He also spoke of the wide scope of the church in religious matters and of the sacrifices of our forefathers in early days in buildings schools for the religious education of the young. In closing he said: "We praise God for the great work already accomplished and thank Him for the great things which are to come."

Another number by the choir and Mgr. Mooney was introduced. As he rose to speak the entire audience rose to its feet and he was received by a hearty round of hand clapping. He said in part:

"I feel prejudiced by the fact of the dedication of this school in favor of the little school where I received the beginning of education. It was but a little house on a hill, in fact a sand bank, and was in danger of tumbling off at every storm. It certainly was not so large as this building and was not constructed of such expensive material but it is yet very distinct in my recollection. It was originally the church but had been made larger for a school house. This was before my time. When as a boy I first went there to school Stephen Hardy was the teacher. Later he was succeeded by Mr. Tetley, who became a Christian brother. Father Felix Farrelly was pastor of St. Mary's at that time. In those days Rondout was a great place even apart from its school. We had the same church you have today and it was the largest between New York and Albany and in fact many in New York could not compare with it. There was nothing on the river which could compare with it. It did great credit to Rondout and showed the spirit of the town in those days. In 1860 a piece of property was bought for $4,800 and the money was raised in one day twelve men alone contributing $100 each and another $125." The speaker here paid a glowing tribute to Dr. Whalen and the Bishop of Albany, both former pastors of the church.

"At that time Kingston had no church. While today Rondout has, I am told, had material set-backs, it is not evident that the spiritual enthusiasm of the people can be found fault with. This structure shows that the old spirit planted so firmly so long ago has been well preserved. Lest Father Hickey get too proud of the achievement of his people I wish to state that all you have today is due to the faith of the parish of Rondout in my time. You have a right to be proud, to take credit to yourselves for helping so unremittingly the efforts of your pastor. Your pastor is a worthy successor of the noble men who have been pastors and maintained the ascendency of the church. He has the business ability and will carry through anything he attempts.

"It has been a pleasure and honor to have been able to come back and see the latest manifestations of the Catholic spirit of the people of St. Mary's Church. Although my connection with St. Mary's has been severed, still when I come to Rondout and this church, no matter what other friends I have made since a pupil here, I feel at home."

At the conclusion of the address the speaker was again loudly applauded. At the conclusion of the exercises the audience went to St. Mary's Church where the benediction was pronounced by Mgr. Mooney.

Among the clergymen in attendance at the services were the Right Rev. Mgr. Joseph F. Mooney, vicar general, New York, administrator of the archdiocese of New York in the absence at Rome of Cardinal Farley; the Right Rev. John Riley, Schenectady; the Rev. Fran[illegible] Cummings, East Kingston; the Re[illegible] George Wermuth, the Rev. John [illegible] Hickey, the Rev. Stephen Conne[illegible], the Rev. Father Gilmartin, the Rev. James Prendergast, the Rev. [illegible] J. Brocco, the Rev. James F. Han[illegible]y, Milton; the Rev. J. H. Briody, t[illegible] Rev. Mallick J. Fitzpatrick, New Mark.

In singing the beautiful program prepared for the occasion by St. Mary's choir and assistant singers, they covered themselves with glory. All the musical numbers were sung with a swing and precision that could only come from careful The[illegible]. Prof. W. H. Rieser, organist [illegible]ors, Mary's, labored diligently to make the musical service memorable and succeeded mightily well. H[illegible]dand Goward sang finely the grand [illegible]s w[illegible], Holy Lord God Almighty," fro[illegible] gotlfunod's St. Cecelia mass and [illegible]utiful J. H. Schreiber, who was not list[illegible], Jan the program, nevertheless gra[illegible]Joll the large assemblage with a sig[illegible], b delivery of the famous num[illegible]arw "Inflammatus et Assensus," fro[illegible] Mr Rossini's Stabat Mater. To sing this number is the heighth of every to[illegible]ima donna's ambition. It taxes the[illegible]bility of any singer, but Mrs. Schreiber surmounted its difficulties easily and beautifully. She was finely supported by the large choir in the choral effects. Haydn's "Heavens Are Telling the Glory of God" was sung grandly. The music was supported by a large orchestra from the Symphony Society.

The dedication services of the West Hurley M. E. Church were held on Sunday morning and afternoon and were largely attended. At the morning service the dedication sermon was preached by the Rev. Dr. T. H. Baragwanath, superintendent of the Kingston district, and in the afternoon the Revs. S. Bullen, J. N. Bohlman and I. G. Price, former pastors, delivered short and appropriate addresses. At the morning service R. W. Gausmann of Brown's Station sang two solos and at the afternoon service Mrs. E. T. Byles rendered two selections. The services were of a deeply religious character and were very impressive.

The new church is located near the Woodstock station of the Ulster & Delaware Railroad and is about two miles from the old site in the village of West Hurley. The auditorium is large and the Sunday school room is connected with the auditorium with rolling doors that can be moved back to increase the sitting capacity of the church. In the rear is a large and well equipped kitchen where the ladies of the church can prepare the church dinners. The old bell in the church which was torn down by New York city has been installed in the new edifice. The building has a large cellar with a furnace and the church is heated with hot air.

The pastor in charge is the Rev. E. T. Byles, who also serves the Ashokan and Glenford Churches. Church services will be held every Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock in the new church by Mr. Byles.

EVENING SERVICE ON MEMORIAL DAY

On Saturday evening Pratt Post, No. 127, Grand Army of the Republic, and Colonial Camp, No. 75, Spanish War Veterans, held a joint memorial service at the armory which was largely attended. The veterans were disappointed in not being able to get the films depicting the life of the martyred president, Abraham Lincoln, and another had to be substituted. The Hon. Joseph M. Fowler, patriotic instructor of Colonial Camp, presided at the exercises and rousing national airs were rendered by the Colonial City Band. Mayor Canfield delivered a stirring address, as did Major James H. Everett. County Attorney John W. Eckert was also one of the speakers of the evening. Comrade Irving B. Wood, of Colonial Camp, blew taps at the close of the program.

Fined $25.

John Egner was arrested on Saturday night by Policeman Ryan for being drunk and disorderly on North Front street. He was arraigned this morning before Recorder Grogan and pleaded not guilty. After the officer had told his story defendant was found guilty and sentenced to pay a fine of $25.

DEDICATION OF ST. MARY'S SCHOOL

Immense crowds attended the exercises at St. Mary's Church and school hall on Sunday afternoon when the dedication of the new school building took place. Religious services were held in the church first at which the school children were present and the chancel was filled with a score or more of clergymen. Then the procession started, headed by Michael J. Rafferty as marshal.

At the lead was the Colonial City Band, followed by the men of St. Mary's Church, the school children, all the girls being dressed in white and carrying American flags; the Knights of Columbus, Holy Name Societies of St. Mary's Church and St. Peter's Church, the Polish societies of the Church of the Immaculate Conception giving a dash of color to the procession with their arms and brilliant uniforms. The Peter Barmann fife, drum and bugle corps led this division of the parade. A long line of automobiles brought up the rear and contained the clergymen.

The parade marched from the church to McEntee street, to Wurts street, to Abeel street, to Broadway, to the hall. Here the officiant, the Right Rev. Mgr. Mooney, V. G., assisted by the Rev. Mallick J. Fitzpatrick and the Rev. J. H. Briody blessed the walls of the building and also the inside of the building. Inside the hall there was not a vacant chair by the time the services started.

The Rev. John J. Hickey, rector of the church, presided and spoke of the great satisfaction to pastor and congregation that the work was about completed. He spoke of the great sacrifices made by the parishioners and stated that there now remained but $18,000 to pay on the school and he hoped with the co-operation of all to have the school free from debt within a year. This was met with hearty applause from the congregation and clergy present. Father Hickey paid high tributes to Mgr. Riley of Schenectady and Mgr. Mooney, the latter being claimed by St. Mary's parish where he received his early education although he was a native of Pennsylvania.

After a selection by the choir Mgr. Riley was introduced and proved an eloquent and witty speaker. He spoke of the magnificent achievement of the parish in building the fine school and said he considered it an honor to be present on this occasion. The work of the Catholic church in preparing the young for their duties in after life was spoken of by Mgr. Riley. Although down on the program for a sermon he preferred to take a course between "so as not to offend either side." He also spoke of the wide scope of the church in religious matters and of the sacrifices of our forefathers in early days in buildings schools for the religious education of the young. In closing he said: "We praise God for the great work already accomplished and thank Him for the great things which are to come."

Another number by the choir and Mgr. Mooney was introduced. As he rose to speak the entire audience rose to its feet and he was received by a hearty round of hand clapping. He said in part:

"I feel prejudiced by the fact of the dedication of this school in favor of the little school where I received the beginning of education. It was but a little house on a hill, in fact a sand bank, and was in danger of tumbling off at every storm. It certainly was not so large as this building and was not constructed of such expensive material but it is yet very distinct in my recollection. It was originally the church but had been made larger for a school house. This was before my time. When as a boy I first went there to school Stephen Hardy was the teacher. Later he was succeeded by Mr. Tetley, who became a Christian brother. Father Felix Farrelly was pastor of St. Mary's at that time. In those days Rondout was a great place even apart from its school. We had the same church you have today and it was the largest between New York and Albany and in fact many in New York could not compare with it. There was nothing on the river which could compare with it. It did great credit to Rondout and showed the spirit of the town in those days. In 1860 a piece of property was bought for $4,800 and the money was raised in one day twelve men alone contributing $100 each and another $125." The speaker here paid a glowing tribute to Dr. Whalen and the Bishop of Albany, both former pastors of the church.

"At that time Kingston had no church. While today Rondout has, I am told, had material set-backs, it is not evident that the spiritual enthusiasm of the people can be found fault with. This structure shows that the old spirit planted so firmly so long ago has been well preserved. Lest Father Hickey get too proud of the achievement of his people I wish to state that all you have today is due to the faith of the parish of Rondout in my time. You have a right to be proud, to take credit to yourselves for helping so unremittingly the efforts of your pastor. Your pastor is a worthy successor of the noble men who have been pastors and maintained the ascendency of the church. He has the business ability and will carry through anything he attempts.

"It has been a pleasure and honor to have been able to come back and see the latest manifestations of the Catholic spirit of the people of St. Mary's Church. Although my connection with St. Mary's has been severed, still when I come to Rondout and this church, no matter what other friends I have made since a pupil here, I feel at home."

At the conclusion of the address the speaker was again loudly applauded. At the conclusion of the exercises the audience went to St. Mary's Church where the benediction was pronounced by Mgr. Mooney.

Among the clergymen in attendance at the services were the Right Rev. Mgr. Joseph F. Mooney, vicar general, New York, administrator of the archdiocese of New York in the absence at Rome of Cardinal Farley; the Right Rev. John Riley, Schenectady; the Rev. Francis Cummings, East Kingston; the Rev. George Wermuth, the Rev. John J. Hickey, the Rev. Stephen Connelly, the Rev. Father Gilmartin, the Rev. James Prendergast, the Rev. J. Brocco, the Rev. James F. Hanley, Milton; the Rev. J. H. Briody, the Rev. Mallick J. Fitzpatrick, New Mark.

In singing the beautiful program prepared for the occasion by St. Mary's choir and assistant singers, they covered themselves with glory. All the musical numbers were sung with a swing and precisly that could only come from careful The. Prof. W. H. Rieser, organist and ors, Mary's, labored diligently to make the musical service memorable and succeeded mightily well. Handel's "Forward and finely the grand chorus, Holy Lord God Almighty," from Gounod's St. Cecelia mass and beautiful. H. Schreiber, who was not listed on the program, nevertheless gra Joli the large assemblage with a sing, delivery of the famous number "Inflammatus et Assensus," from Rossini's Stabat Mater. To sing this number is the heighth of every prima donna's ambition. It taxes the ability of any singer, but Mrs. Schreiber surmounted its difficulties easily and beautifully. She was finely supported by the large choir in the choral effects. Haydn's "Heavens Are Telling the Glory of God" was sung grandly. The music was supported by a large orchestra from the Symphony Society.

...A... Revelation

It Came After a Very Unpleasant Experience

By DONALD CHAMBERLIN

I was brought up with Agnes Atherton as my girl chum, for I believe that boys may have girl chums as well as boy chums. When we arrived at an age at which the sexes mate there was no change between Agnes and me from friendship to love.

This state of affairs continued between us until I became smitten with Lillian Gray, and the first person—the only person, in fact—to whom I confided the matter was Agnes.

When I told her of it I noticed a slight contraction of the muscles of the face.

"You don't approve?" I said.

"I neither approve nor disapprove," she replied.

"Well?"

"A choice made by one in love is a love choice, not the result of judgment. You have, I dare say, chosen through love, and even if I knew Lillian Gray well enough to make a judgment choice for you it would avail nothing, for you would not think of abiding by it. Indeed, I would not expect you to abide by it."

"Nevertheless I perceive that you are not especially pleased with the girl who has charmed me."

"Nor displeased with her. You have not asked me to pick out a wife for you."

"If I had you would not have picked out Lillian."

"There is nothing to her discredit in that. Suppose I should fall in love with a man, then ask you to pick out a husband for me. Do you suppose you would select the man I had chosen?"

"No, I wouldn't," I snapped.

I could not define even now exactly what it was in her question that caused me irritation. I supposed at the time I was miffed because Agnes did not show any enthusiasm over my sweetheart. My words ended the discussion, and we proceeded to other subjects.

The withholding of Agnes' approval—or disapproval, for that matter—caused me to defer a proposal of marriage for some time to the girl who had enthralled me. I did not relish marrying any girl over whom my chum was not enthusiastic. Indeed, I would have liked Agnes to love her as well as I. In a subsequent conversation with Agnes on the subject after I had become engaged to Lillian I told her this, and her reply was that there was no more reason why she should love any particular girl because I loved her than that I should love any particular man because she loved him.

"That's all bosh," I exclaimed. "Men don't love men."

This was the second time that I was irritated at a remark of Agnes concerning my affair, and a second time it ended a discussion of the subject.

Another matter troubled me. I was not approved by Lillian's parents. But there was an especial reason for this. They wished their daughter to marry a wealthy man. I was doing pretty well and had some prospects, but that did not satisfy Mr. and Mrs. Gray. Their aim for Lillian was an establishment. She had an excellent position in society, which they desired her to keep up after marriage, and they were well aware that this would require a fortune independent of anything they could give her.

I did not blame Lillian for being distressed at their opposition. A very strong love for me on her part was required to induce her to give up a life to which she had always been accustomed, in opposition to her parents' wishes. I saw plainly that a struggle was going on within her, and after deliberation I offered to release her. She declined to be released. I told her that if she felt a reluctance to leave the gay world she would serve her own interests as well as mine by accepting a release, for no couple could be happy together when one was pining for the unattainable. She replied that she could not and would not give me up.

But the matter dragged. Her parents would not give their consent to our marriage, and since Lillian did not like to marry me without it there seemed to be no prospect of any outcome. At last I told her that she must do one thing or the other, either marry me or break with me, and after much deliberation, in which I detected as much unwillingness to give up the fashionable world as to act contrary to the wishes of her parents, she decided to marry me. But she stipulated that our wedding must be without the knowledge of her parents. We would go to a clergyman, be married; she would return to her home, confess what she had done and secure forgiveness, after which we would live together as man and wife.

I did not like this plan at all. I urged Lillian to do nothing secretly. She replied that she knew her parents better than I and could better judge what course was best to pursue with them. I told her that anything clandestine was foreign to my nature and frankly confessed that I would prefer to give her up than act underhandedly. She burst into tears. Every one knows what woman's tears will do with a man. Smiles will draw him to the edge of a moral precipice; tears will drag him over.

One afternoon I called with my car on Lillian, ostensibly to take her for a drive, really to go with her to a clergyman and be married. She had confided her intention to a bosom friend of hers, a Bessie Angell, and desired that she be present at the ceremony. She claimed that there should be witnesses, so I asked my friend Arnold Brown to be of the party. These two were to meet us at the parsonage.

Lillian was trembling when she entered the car. On the way she said nothing to me, and when I spoke to her she replied by monosyllables. I realized that she was not in a condition of sufficient equanimity to take the most important step in a woman's life.

"There is yet time," I said, "to retreat from this step."

"No," she replied faintly. "I am going through with it."

I was half minded to stop the matter where it was, but when we are half minded we are as liable to decide wrong as right. I drove on to the parsonage and pulled up before the door.

"Go in," she said, "and see if they are all there; then come back for me."

"Hadn't you better go in with me?" I asked.

"No; I won't be married without Bess."

Always persuaded to what I did not approve of, I went to the front door, rang the bell and was admitted. I found Arnold Brown waiting for me, but no Bessie Angell. Stepping to the telephone, I called up her home and asked for her. She came to the telephone, and I asked her why she was not at the parsonage. She replied that she had not been certain from what Lillian had said to her when the last met whether the wedding come off or not. To this I exp surprise. After a dialogue, very isfactory to me, it was agreed th should hold the wire while I w to Lillian, and if I returned wi quest from her friend to come parsonage she would come at Setting down the receiver, I ran the car.

It was where I had left it, b Lillian.

My heart went down like le looked in every direction, thoug expecting to see her. Flight was ting climax to the vacillation she shown. I stood on the steps, wond ing what to do.

When we are in a hole we naturall turn to something or some one to pull us out. I thought of Agnes Atherton. My own judgment had been led so far astray by Lillian that I could not at once get it in working order. I didn't know what to do about Arnold Brown. I shrank from telling him I had been left in the lurch by one I was about to make my life partner. Returning to him, I said:

"Arnold, there is a hitch; wait here till I straighten it out."

He saw that I was flurried and told me to go slow; he would wait for me there till the crack of doom. Hurrying out, I drove to Agnes' home, and fortunately I found her there.

I told her the whole story.

I had thrown myself on a sofa, and she sat down beside me, taking my hand in hers soothingly.

"It seems to me," she said, "that there is nothing for you to do but tell the truth to your friend, Mr. Brown, and that will end the matter."

"I dare say you're right, but I would rather do a six months' term in state prison than confess to him that I have been such a fool"—

I stopped short, and for a few moments there was silence between us, at the end of which Agnes asked:

"Has Mr. Brown ever seen"—

"Lillian? No."

"I'll tell you what I'll do for you. You seem all cut up, and I would like to help you out. My law of action is the intent. I will go with you to the parsonage, marry you, and we will have the marriage annulled at our leisure."

Never in so short a space of time was a revelation made to any human being. Here was a woman, worthy of the devotion of the best man living, whom I had turned down for the weakest. It all came upon me with sledgehammer force. Clasping Agnes in my arms, I said:

"It will never be annulled with my consent."

Hastening to a phone, I called up the parsonage, got Arnold and said:

"The tangle is unraveled. I and the bride will be with you presently."

In less than half an hour Agnes and I were in the parsonage. I introduced her to Brown; then the clergyman was called from his study and performed the wedding ceremony, neither he nor the single witness suspecting that in a twinkling there had been a change in the bride.

After the ceremony there were still several hours before the end of the day, and I drove my wife into the country. What passed between us could not be condensed within a few words. I would not care to give it if it were possible. We settled our mutual affairs to the satisfaction of both, Agnes confessing before our return that when I told her of my engagement I gave her a shock since she had always wished me for herself. And so it turned out that instead of getting a girl who was not worthy of me I got one of whom I was not worthy. We arranged our affairs so that no one would be shocked at the hastiness of our marriage and in due time appeared before the world as man and wife.

Lillian Gray is married to a very wealthy man. Whether or not she regrets me I don't know, but I doubt if she realized the weakness she displayed in her relations with me. Agnes says that Lillian is so wrapped up in the world of fashion that she doubtless looks upon her affair with me as a narrow escape from a very foolish move, a move that would have condemned her to a humdrum life.

People are sometimes slow to change—even in summer—from the old-time heavy breakfast of fried bacon or ham and eggs.

But the "world moves," and in thousands of homes a wise change has been made to the new-time breakfast—

THREE HURT IN MOTORCYCLE CRASH

As the result of a crash of two motorcycles late Saturday night near the Quaker Church at the top of the hill near Milton three men are in the St. Luke's Hospital, at Newburgh with fractured skulls and other injuries and it is feared that one of the victims may die.

The barn of Chester Young on the Lefever property near the public school building at Napanoch, was completely destroyed by fire Saturday night about 12 o'clock. The horses were taken out but a large amount of farm implements were destroyed by the fire.

D., of Albany, president of the conference, will deliver the charge to the people. The Rev. Frederick Brezinski of Jersey City, a former pastor, will deliver the charge to the people.

Rev. Henry B. Frost of Dairyland most creditably passed the evaminations on Hebrew, Greek and Biblical literature and theology before the Classis of Orange at the manse of the Reformed Church in Ellenville last week. The examiner in the first three subjects was Rev. W. L. Steiner and in the later Rev. J. W. Conger of Port Jervis. The Classis voted to proceed to license him to preach, which was done after which the Classis of Orange dismissed him to the Classis of Kingston in order that he may become pastor of the Rochester Reformed Church at Accord.

Things of Real Worth.

When a man begins looking at the clock, when the main thing is to get the largest possible output in the shortest possible time, industrial art takes flight. It returns only when further developments in culture make it impossible for the race to remain satisfied with machine-made surroundings; when the clock is once more turned to face the wall, and man once more sets himself an ideal of beauty and worth, rather than of speed.

PITIABLE CONDITION OF ARNOLD HAUSER

Arnold Hauser, Former Cardinal Star.

Arnold Hauser, the crack Cardinal shortstop, is confined in a private sanitarium at Chicago, and not much hope is held out for his recovery. He has been afflicted with religious mania, and breaks out violently every day or so. When rational he is apparently as well as he ever was, but his physician stated to Manager Huggins that he is much discouraged about his case. Hauser's bad knee, which laid him up for a time, has entirely recovered, and he is perfectly sound physically, but little hope is extended of his getting out of the sanitarium this season, if at all. It is one of the saddest cases in baseball. Hauser's trouble dates from the time when he lost his mother and his baby.

BASEBALL NOTES

Ty Cobb, Nap Rucker, Eddie Cicotte and Clyde Engle all graduated from the Augusta, Ga., team of 1905.

* * *

Manager Frank Chance of the Yankees declares that in Truesdale he has the real find of the season.

* * *

The veteran George Nill, second baseman, has been signed by the Ottawa club, of the Canadian league.

* * *

* * *

Ollie Pickering, American league veteran, and former manager of the Paducah club, has signed with Owensboro.

* * *

Jack Enzenroth, the former University of Michigan catcher, is showing up well behind the bat for the St. Louis Browns.

* * *

American league teams coming to New York used to count on three out of four, but now it's "if we get an even break in New York."

* * *

Jack Graney has a bull terrier named Larry as mascot for the Cleveland club. Larry may be a good dog, but as a mascot his best trick seems to be "playing dead."

* * *

"Ham" Hyatt is kept in the limelight by his successful pinch hitting. Hyatt's timely wallops have placed more than one game on ice for the Pirates so far this spring.

* * *

The Pirates are described by a newspaper man who travels with them as one big happy family with no factions, but the worst "bunch of crabs" in the world when they lose.

* * *

Charles H. Ebbets has his eyes set on two championships this year. He considers his Newark club a cinch in the International league; and has strong hopes of a National league pennant.

* * *

Larry Doyle, field general and second sacker of the Giants, is performing in true championship form. The genial captain can be depended upon to do his share in keeping the McGrawites in the running.

* * *

In 1903 Jersey City won the International league championship with the highest average (.741) ever made by a team in the league. The "Skeeters" evidently played themselves out in that year, for they have never been up there since.

* * *

One of the best things about the Giants' playing these days is Chief Myers' throwing. He never pegged better. The Chief throws and hits better than he runs, but that means more employment because of the need of carrying a pinch runner.

BENDER WANTS TO BE ALONE

In times of illness, Chief Bender, the great Indian pitcher of the Athletics, forgets the veneer of civilization and goes back to the Indian ways.

Bender spurns the services of a physician when he is sick, takes no medicine, but simply hies himself away and doesn't come back until he is well again.

Chief Bender.

A short time after Bender joined the Athletics he was taken ill. Connie Mack wanted to have a physician attend the twirler, but Bender shook his head.

"I'm sick, but I don't need medicine," he said.

Connie left Bender's room for a little while, and when he returned he was surprised to find that the chief had slipped out. Inquiries failed to locate him, and when Bender didn't show up that night or the next day, Connie became worried.

For two nights and two days the search was made for Bender, but to no avail. He couldn't be found. By this time Connie was almost frantic. Just when he was about to send out a general alarm for his missing Indian star he decided to take another look into Bender's room, and there he found him huddled up in bed.

"Where have you been?" demanded Mack.

"Sick," answered Bender.

"But you haven't been in your room at the hotel," said Mack. "Were you at a hospital?"

"No. I went away where it was quiet and where I could be alone," replied Bender. "When an Indian is sick he doesn't want any noise around, and he doesn't want medicine or doctors. He just wants to let nature take its course in curing him."

Common Origin of Language.

All the subtleties of language, sounding poetry and melodic phrase come from the stimulus imparted to a tasting tongue muscle by the necessity in a far-gone age of utilizing our mouths to full capacity in enjoying what we were eating and in making noises while we did it.

Hand-in-Hand.

"I tell you Pat, my boy," the big man of the town confided, laying a patronizing hand on the young Irishman's shoulder, "I wish I had your tongue." "Sure, sor," grinned Pat, "but it would do yez no good without me brains."—Woman's Home Companion.

Few People Walk Properly.

The importance of a graceful carriage can hardly be overestimated. Few people walk properly and well. One's walk should be easy, graceful, and, above all, natural. Do not turn the toes in, but take firm and decided steps. Do not bring the heels down with a thump at each step, but have them moderately long and quiet. A well-known writer says, "Whoever carries the chin close to the neck is all right from top to toe and will walk well."

TROUBLE WITH YOUR TEETH?

Let us help you—We can, no matter what the trouble is.

If you need new ones, we will supply you with a set that will give you lifetime satisfaction. If it is treatment, filling, crown or bridge work that is necessary, if you let us do the work, it will be skillfully done.

Come in—We can make your visit a pleasure instead of pain.

THREE HURT IN MOTORCYCLE CRASH

As the result of a crash of two motorcycles late Saturday night near the Quaker Church at the top of the hill near Milton three men are in the St. Luke's Hospital, at Newburgh with fractured skulls and other injuries and it is feared that one of the victims may die.

Defeated Kingston Stars.

The Wilbur Juniors defeated the Kingston Stars on Sunday afternoon. The score was 17 to 12. The feature of the game was the big league batting of Newman.

Things of Real Worth.

When a man begins looking at the clock when the main thing is to get the largest possible output in the shortest possible time, industrial art takes flight. It returns only when further developments in culture make it impossible for the race to remain satisfied with machine-made surroundings; when the clock is once more turned to face the wall, and man once more sets himself an ideal of beauty and worth, rather than of speed.

PITIABLE CONDITION OF ARNOLD HAUSER

Arnold Hauser, Former Cardinal Star.

Arnold Hauser, the crack Cardinal shortstop, is confined in a private sanitarium at Chicago, and not much hope is held out for his recovery. He has been afflicted with religious mania, and breaks out violently every day or so. When rational he is apparently as well as he ever was, but his physician stated to Manager Huggins that he is much discouraged about his case. Hauser's bad knee, which laid him up for a time, has entirely recovered, and he is perfectly sound physically, but little hope is extended of his getting out of the sanitarium this season, if at all. It is one of the saddest cases in baseball. Hauser's trouble dates from the time when he lost his mother and his baby.

BASEBALL NOTES

Ty Cobb, Nap Rucker, Eddie Cicotte and Clyde Engle all graduated from the Augusta, Ga., team of 1905.

• • •

Manager Frank Chance of the Yankees declares that in Truesdale he has the real find of the season.

• • •

The veteran George Nill, second baseman, has been signed by the Ottawa club, of the Canadian league.

• • •

• • •

Ollie Pickering, American league veteran, and former manager of the Paducah club, has signed with Owensboro.

• • •

Jack Enzenroth, the former University of Michigan catcher, is showing up well behind the bat for the St. Louis Browns.

• • •

American league teams coming to New York used to count on three out of four, but now it's "if we get an even break in New York."

• • •

Jack Graney has a bull terrier named Larry as mascot for the Cleveland club. Larry may be a good dog, but as a mascot his best trick seems to be "playing dead."

• • •

"Ham" Hyatt is kept in the limelight by his successful pinch hitting. Hyatt's timely wallops have placed more than one game on ice for the Pirates so far this spring.

• • •

The Pirates are described by a newspaper man who travels with them as one big happy family with no factions, but the worst "bunch of crabs" in the world when they lose.

• • •

Charles H. Ebbets has his eyes set on two championships this year. He considers his Newark club a cinch in the International league; and has strong hopes of a National league pennant.

• • •

Larry Doyle, field general and second sacker of the Giants, is performing in true championship form. The genial captain can be depended upon to do his share in keeping the McGrawites in the running.

• • •

In 1903 Jersey City won the International league championship with the highest average (.741) ever made by a team in the league. The "Skeeters" evidently played themselves out in that year, for they have never been up there since.

• • •

One of the best things about the Giants' playing these days is Chief Myers' throwing. He never pegged better. The Chief throws and hits better than he runs, but that means more employment because of the need of carrying a pinch runner.

BENDER WANTS TO BE ALONE

In times of illness, Chief Bender, the great Indian pitcher of the Athletics, forgets the veneer of civilization and goes back to the Indian ways.

Bender spurns the services of a physician when he is sick, takes no medicine, but simply hies himself away and doesn't come back until he is well again.

Chief Bender.

A short time after Bender joined the Athletics he was taken ill. Connie Mack wanted to have a physician attend the twirler, but Bender shook his head.

"I'm sick, but I don't need medicine," he said.

Connie left Bender's room for a little while, and when he returned he was surprised to find that the chief had slipped out. Inquiries failed to locate him, and when Bender didn't show up that night or the next day, Connie became worried.

For two nights and two days the search was made for Bender, but to no avail. He couldn't be found. By this time Connie was almost frantic. Just when he was about to send out a general alarm for his missing Indian star he decided to take another look into Bender's room, and there he found him huddled up in bed.

"Where have you been?" demanded Mack.

"Sick," answered Bender.

"But you haven't been in your room at the hotel," said Mack. "Were you at a hospital?"

"No. I went away where it was quiet and where I could be alone," replied Bender. "When an Indian is sick he doesn't want any noise around, and he doesn't want medicine or doctors. He just wants to let nature take its course in curing him."

Common Origin of Language.

All the subtleties of language, sounding poetry and melodic phrase come from the stimulus imparted to a tasting tongue muscle by the necessity in a far-gone age of utilizing our mouths to full capacity in enjoying what we were eating and in making noises while we did it.

Hand-in-Hand.

"I tell you Pat, my boy," the big man of the town confided, laying a patronizing hand on the young Irishman's shoulder, "I wish I had your tongue." "Sure, sor," grinned Pat, "but it would do you no good without me brains."—Woman's Home Companion.

Few People Walk Properly.

The importance of a graceful carriage can hardly be overestimated. Few people walk properly and well. One's walk should be easy, graceful, and, above all, natural. Do not turn the toes in, but take firm and decided steps. Do not bring the heels down with a thump at each step, but have them moderately long and quiet. A well-known writer says, "Whoever carries the chin close to the neck is all right from top to toe and will walk well."

TROUBLE WITH YOUR TEETH?

Let us help you—We can, no matter what the trouble is.

If you need new ones, we will supply you with a set that will give you lifetime satisfaction. If it is treatment, filling, crown or bridge work that is necessary, if you let us do the work, it will be skillfully done.

Come in—We can make your visit a pleasure instead of pain.

St. Peter for Poughkeepsie this morning harge of Under Sheriff Archie aughlin. St. Peter it will be embered was indicted by the d jury last year for selling quor in the dry town of Olive. He as arrested and when arraigned fore Judge Jenkins pleaded guilty was fined $200, and sentenced to ve three months in jail. He paid fine and the jail sentence was spended. St. Peter instead of re- rming went back to Tongore and as recently indicted by the grand ury on the same charge of violation f the liquor law and two indict- ents were found against him. he day before the grand jury re- orted St. Peter evidently aware hat there was "something doing" disappeared, but was unable to keep away from his old haunts and was arrested at the West Shore station in this city a short time ago by Under Sheriff McLaughlin who had received a tip that St. Peter was on his way back to Tongore. He was again arraigned before Judge Jenkins and pleaded guilty to the first indictment and not guilty to the second indictment. The next day or so he withdrew his plea of guilty and entered a plea of not guilty to both indictments. St. Peter will be tried on both indictments after he has served out his suspended sentence.

Judge Jenkins since assuming office as county judge has found it necessary to enforce three suspended sentences of which St. Peter's sentence was the last one. The question raised by Judge O'Reilly is whether the court has the right to enforce suspended sentences.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, June 1.—An upward movement in Missouri Pacific was about the only feature of the stock market at the opening today. This issue began at 18½ for the loss of ⅛ from Saturday's final but at the end of half an hour had climbed to 19⅜, a net gain of nearly a point. The buying was induced by a better financial outlook for the system. Irregularity was shown by the list and many stocks sold minus their dividends. Steel common, which sold minus its quarterly dividend of 1¼ began at 61⅝ against 63 at the close Friday. This opening price represented a decline of ⅛. Union Pacific began at 156 minus its dividend of 2 per cent, this price representing a gain of ⅛ from Friday's final. Texas Company gained ½ and fractional gains were also scored by United States Rubber, Beet Sugar, Canadian Pacific, Chino Copper and Pennsylvania. Amalgamated Copper lost ¼. Reading began ⅝ lower but made a partial recovery within the first half hour. Baltimore and Ohio also yielded fractionally under pressure. The Curb was steady. There was no session in the London stock exchange due to the observervances of Whit-Monday holiday.

Noon.—There was no improvement in the volume of business in the late forenoon, trading in the standard issues being small and those stocks fluctuated within narrow range. Missouri Pacific was the most active, advancing over a point. American Beet sugar reacted ½ to 25¾. Steel Common and Amalgamated Copper unchanged. Call money loaning at 1¾.

N. Y., N. H. & H., sold down to 65⅞ in the last hour, against 67 at the close last Friday, but rallied slightly. Union Pacific sold around 155½, while there were fractional declines in a number of other important issues. The undertone was quiet.

Then he moved to Kingston and started in the hotel business on North Front street, which he continued for thirty years. He retired from business about four years ago on account of failing health. Mr. Barnhart was a great lover of horses and at one time he owned and drove some of the best horses in Ulster county, including the famous Nellie Shamrock. Mr. Barnhart was married twice and is survived by two children of his first marriage, Mrs. William Van Etten and Milton Barnhart, both of this city. Charles O. Livingston, for many years a well known resident of Ulster county, died Saturday evening at his home on the banks of the Hudson river at Flatbush. Mr. Livingston was about eighty years old and for the past two years had been in failing health. During the past winter he was confined to his home, but with the return of spring he was able to be out of doors and visited Kingston frequently. Mr. Livingston was born at Barrytown, Dutchess county, and was the son of Robert Montgomery Livingston, who was one of the prominent residents of upper Dutchess county for a number of years. On his paternal side he was descended from Robert Livingston, who came to America from England in 1696, and few families occupied a more prominent part in the history of New York as a colony and as a state. Among the most distinguished members of the family from whom Mr. Livingston was in descent were Chancellor Robert R. Livingston and Judge Edward H. Livingston. After spending several years of his early life in Sullivan county, Mr. Livingston many years ago purchased an extensive property at Flatbush which he named "Charley's Hope." The farm became one of the most productive in the county and was well known throughout this section. Mr. Livingston devoted himself largely to fruit culture and was among the pioneer apple growers of this region. For many years his apples, which gained a notable reputation, were supplied to the reigning family of Great Britain and commanded a prominent place in the London markets. He was an extensive cultivator of flowers and vegetables and his gardens were well known to growers. Mr. Livingston was also fond of horses and for many years his horses were considered the best roadsters in this region. Mr. Livingston was a man of kindly judgment, kindly spoken. His judgment in public matters was excellent and his views were broad.. He preserved the best traditions of a distinguished and eminent line of ancestors and his personal life was serene and wholesome, marked by a warm attachment to high principles and a deep devotion to his family. He was an excellent raconteur, was extensively read, of charming personality and in every way was representative of what is best described by the term, "gentleman of the old school." In politics he was an old-line Democrat, but never held public office except once, many years ago, when at the urgent request of neighbors he accepted the nomination for commissioner of highways of the town of Saugerties, to which he was elected. For a number of years he was a regular and consistent member of St. John's Episcopal Church of Kingston, of which he had served as warden and vestryman, and later of Trinity Episcopal Church of Saugerties. Mr. Livingston married Miss Sarah Elizabeth Ramsey of New York city who with two sons, Charles Victor Livingston of Flatbush and Robert R. Livingston of New York city, survive him. The funeral took place this afternoon from Trinity Church, Saugerties.

People throughout this country need to take a little time at daybreak and also just before dark and remove the worm nests from the trees on their property as on and after today. It will be unlawful to allow the webs to remain undisturbed in the trees. It does little good to take the webs from the trees in the middle of the day as the worms are out foraging on the foliage of the trees. But at night they return to their nest and if then the nests are destroyed one can also destroy most of the caterpillars also.

THE IDEAL JURYMAN.

His Age and Qualifications From an English Point of View.

There is a general agreement in London legal circles that the best jurymen are to be found among men sixty years of age. The opinion is that jurymen at that age show better judgment than younger men.

A leading London barrister, asked for his opinion, said: "I prefer men about fifty years of age. A defending barrister in, say, a criminal case which has certain sentimental elements will always welcome a young jury. He knows he can touch their emotions far more easily than he can those of men over fifty. Sentiment is very rare at fifty, and a man is cold and purely logical. The average man who has reached the age of fifty looks upon things from a materialistic point of view, and his judgment is therefore unaffected by sentiment.

"Education, save in certain civil cases, is no great asset to a juryman. The bricklayer or the mechanic has just as much knowledge of human nature and a sense of justice as the professor, and in many respects barristers and judges prefer the unlettered juryman to the man of culture, though in the case of the latter he is less susceptible to an emotional plea. The man with sound common sense, learned not from books, but from everyday life, is not so easily led either by judge or counsel as many suppose, and if you add the wisdom of years you get the ideal juryman."—Exchange.

FORCED THEM TO FIGHT.

How "Honor" Was Satisfied by a Compulsory Duel In Hungary.

The code duello as insisted upon abroad is strikingly illustrated by the story of a happening at Budapest, Hungary. It appears that a lawyer, Babocsay by name, quarreled with his wife over a new hat. The wife called her brother, Lieutenant Hajdu, a military aviator, to her aid. The husband used words deemed insulting by Hajdu.

This coming to the hearing of Hajdu's superior officer, the latter ordered the lieutenant to fight a duel with Babocsay. Neither party wished to fight. Babocsay offered to apologize, and Hajdu was willing to accept the apology and thus end the affair.

But the military martinet was inexorable. The duel must be fought to satisfy the honor of the army. Consequently these two men, closely related, were compelled to attempt to try to take each other's life. They met. Babocsay, firing aimlessly, nevertheless sent a bullet through the lung of his adversary, and Lieutenant Hajdu died of his wound.

Upon hearing of the death of her brother at the hand of her husband in her quarrel Mme. Babocsay went insane, twice attempted suicide and was finally confined to an asylum.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Momentum and Velocity.

In answer to the question "Is it not velocity that produces gravitation? If we throw a stone against a window of sufficient resistance with too little velocity it will not break, but if we throw it with sufficient velocity the window will break," the New York American says:

"We do not know the cause of gravitation nor of anything, but the increased speed of a stone thrown is not the cause of gravitation; it is the cause of momentum, which is a product of mass multiplied by velocity. Momentum would be the same if the stone were thrown close to the earth, where the full attraction of its gravitation would be felt, or out in space trillions of miles, where the earth's gravitation would be almost infinitesimal—that is, the glass would break by increasing the speed of the stone as here on earth."

A Clear Wind Shield.

A doctor living in a rainy climate whose calls took him out often in wet weather undertook the problem of maintaining clear vision through the wind shield of his automobile regardless of rain, and he succeeded in making a prescription that would do the work. The prescription calls for one ounce of water, two ounces of glycerin and one dram of salt. This is poured on a piece of gauze and then wiped over the glass, care being taken to have all the strokes downward. The effect of the treatment is to prevent raindrops from clinging to the glass.—Saturday Evening Post.

He arrested and when arraigned ore Judge Jenkins pleaded guilty was fined $200, and sentenced to ve three months in jail. He paid fine and the jail sentence was spended. St. Peter instead of re- rning went back to Tongore and as recently indicted by the grand ry on the same charge of violation the liquor law and two indict- ents were found against him. he day before the grand jury re- orted St. Peter evidently aware hat there was "something doing" disappeared, but was unable to keep away from his old haunts and was arrested at the West Shore station in this city a short time ago by Under Sheriff McLaughlin who had received a tip that St. Peter was on his way back to Tongore. The next day or so he withdrew his plea of guilty and entered a plea of not guilty to both indictments. St. Peter will be tried on both indictments after he has served out his suspended sentence.

Judge Jenkins since assuming office as county judge has found it necessary to enforce three suspended sentences of which St. Peter's sentence was the last one. The question raised by Judge O'Reilly is whether the court has the right to enforce suspended sentences.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, June 1.—An upward movement in Missouri Pacific was about the only feature of the stock market at the opening today. This issue began at 18½ for the loss of ⅛ from Saturday's final but at the end of half an hour had climbed to 19⅝, a net gain of nearly a point. The buying was induced by a better financial outlook for the system. Irregularity was shown by the list and many stocks sold minus their dividends. Steel common, which sold minus its quarterly dividend of 1¼ began at 61⅝ against 63 at the close Friday. This opening price represented a decline of ⅛. Union Pacific began at 156 minus its dividend of 2 per cent, this price representing a gain of ⅛ from Friday's final. Texas Company gained ½ and fractional gains were also scored by United States Rubber, Beet Sugar, Canadian Pacific, Chino Copper and Pennsylvania. Amalgamated Copper lost ¼. Reading began ⅝ lower but made a partial recovery within the first half hour. Baltimore and Ohio also yielded fractionally under pressure. The Curb was steady. There was no session in the London stock exchange due to the observervances of Whit-Monday holiday.

Noon.—There was no improvement in the volume of business in the late forenoon, trading in the standard issues being small and those stocks fluctuated within narrow range. Missouri Pacific was the most active, advancing over a point. American Beet sugar reacted ½ to 25¾. Steel Common and Amalgamated Copper unchanged. Call money loaning at 1¾.

N. Y., N. H. & H., sold down to 65⅞ in the last hour, against 67 at the close last Friday, but rallied slightly. Union Pacific sold around 155½, while there were fractional declines in a number of other important issues. The undertone was quiet.

To the traveling public she was familiarly known as "Aunt Fannie," and hundreds of visitors on whom she waited during her thirty-nine years' service have pleasant recollections of her. She began her service under the late Captain Frost, and continued under Captain Absalom Anderson, Captain "Billy" Cornell and Captain A. Elting Anderson.

Constantine Borho, Sr., died at his residence, 139 Spring street, on Sunday after a brief illness. Mr. Borho was a well-known and greatly respected citizen, having lived here for over 50 years. During his connection with it, he held the position of trustee, and also was at one time collector for the church. At the time of his death he was an active and earnest worker in St. Peter's Sick and Aid Society and was also a member of the Holy Name Society. In addition there were the services of Colonial Rebecca Lodge of this city, by request of Electric City Lodge, No. 23, of Schenectady of which Mrs. Benjamin was a member. There were in attendance at the funeral a delegation of the Schenectady Hive of Maccabees, No. 255, and a delegation from Wichita Council, No. 176, Degree of Pocahontas, and Daughters of America. There were very numerous and beautiful floral tributes from loving friends and the various orders of which Mrs. Benjamin was an active member. In her home and by her many friends, her ever helping hand and cheerful countenance will be greatly missed.

Silas Barthart, a life long resident of Ulster county, died Sunday evening at his home, 495 Wilbur avenue, after a long illness. Mr. Barnhart was born at The Clove in the town of Rochester 82 years ago. In early youth he ran a boat on the D. & H. Canal. Later he was proprietor of a hotel in Accord for a short time. Then he moved to Kingston and started in the hotel business on North Front street, which he continued for thirty years. He retired from business about four years ago on account of failing health. Mr. Barnhart was a great lover of horses and at one time he owned and drove some of the best horses in Ulster county, including the famous Nellie Shamrock. Mr. Barnhart was married twice and is survived by two children of his first marriage, Mrs. William Van Etten and Milton Barnhart, both of this city. By his second marriage he is survived by his widow and four children, Charlotte, wife of Arthur Dolson, Minerva, wife of Joseph Stock, May, wife of James V. Simpson and one son, Harry, and one brother, James Barnhart. The funeral will be held from the late residence Wednesday at 2 o'clock. Interment in Wiltwyck Cemetery.

Charles O. Livingston, for many years a well known resident of Ulster county, died Saturday evening at his home on the banks of the Hudson river at Flatbush. Mr. Livingston was about eighty years old and for the past two years had been in failing health. During the past winter he was confined to his home, but with the return of spring he was able to be out of doors and visited Kingston frequently. Mr. Livingston was born at Barrytown, Dutchess county, and was the son of Robert Montgomery Livingston, who was one of the prominent residents of upper Dutchess county for a number of years. On his paternal side he was descended from Robert Livingston, who came to America from England in 1696, and few families occupied a more prominent part in the history of New York as a colony and as a state. Among the most distinguished members of the family from whom Mr. Livingston was in descent were Chancellor Robert R. Livingston and Judge Edward H. Livingston. After spending several years of his early life in Sullivan county, Mr. Livingston many years ago purchased an extensive property at Flatbush which he named "Charley's Hope." The farm became one of the most productive in the county and was well known throughout this section. Mr. Livingston devoted himself largely to fruit culture and was among the pioneer apple growers of this region. For many years his apples, which gained a notable reputation, were supplied to the reigning family of Great Britain and commanded a prominent place in the London markets. He was an extensive cultivator of flowers and vegetables and his gardens were well known to growers. Mr. Livingston was also fond of horses and for many years his horses were considered the best roadsters in this region. Mr. Livingston was a man of kindly judgment, kindly spoken. His judgment in public matters was excellent and his views were broad. He preserved the best traditions of a distinguished and eminent line of ancestors and his personal life was serene and wholesome, marked by a warm attachment to high principles and a deep devotion to his family. He was an excellent raconteur, was extensively read, of charming personality and in every way was representative of what is best described by the term, "gentleman of the old school." In politics he was an old-line Democrat, but never held public office except once, many years ago, when at the urgent request of neighbors he accepted the nomination for commissioner of highways of the town of Saugerties, to which he was elected. For a number of years he was a regular and consistent member of St. John's Episcopal Church of Kingston, of which he had served as warden and vestryman, and later of Trinity Episcopal Church of Saugerties. Mr. Livingston married Miss Sarah Elizabeth Ramsey of New York city who with two sons, Charles Victor Livingston of Flatbush and Robert R. Livingston of New York city, survive him. The funeral took place this afternoon from Trinity Church, Saugerties.

People throughout this country need to take a little time at daybreak and also just before dark and remove the worm nests from the trees on their property as on and after today. It will be unlawful to allow the webs to remain undisturbed in the trees. It does little good to take the webs from the trees in the middle of the day as the worms are out foraging on the foliage of the trees. But at night they return to their nest and if then the nests are destroyed one can also destroy most of the caterpillars also.

THE IDEAL JURYMAN.

His Age and Qualifications From an English Point of View.

There is a general agreement in London legal circles that the best jurymen are to be found among men sixty years of age. The opinion is that jurymen at that age show better judgment than younger men.

A leading London barrister, asked for his opinion, said: "I prefer men about fifty years of age. A defending barrister in, say, a criminal case which has certain sentimental elements will always welcome a young jury. He knows he can touch their emotions far more easily than he can those of men over fifty. Sentiment is very rare at fifty, and a man is cold and purely logical. The average man who has reached the age of fifty looks upon things from a materialistic point of view, and his judgment is therefore unaffected by sentiment.

"Education, save in certain civil cases, is no great asset to a juryman. The bricklayer or the mechanic has just as much knowledge of human nature and a sense of justice as the professor, and in many respects barristers and judges prefer the unlettered juryman to the man of culture, though in the case of the latter he is less susceptible to an emotional plea. The man with sound common sense, learned not from books, but from everyday life, is not so easily led either by judge or counsel as many suppose, and if you add the wisdom of years you get the ideal juryman."—Exchange.

FORCED THEM TO FIGHT.

How "Honor" Was Satisfied by a Compulsory Duel In Hungary.

The code duello as insisted upon abroad is strikingly illustrated by the story of a happening at Budapest, Hungary. It appears that a lawyer, Babocsay by name, quarreled with his wife over a new hat. The wife called her brother, Lieutenant Hajdu, a military aviator, to her aid. The husband used words deemed insulting by Hajdu.

This coming to the hearing of Hajdu's superior officer, the latter ordered the lieutenant to fight a duel with Babocsay. Neither party wished to fight. Babocsay offered to apologize, and Hajdu was willing to accept the apology and thus end the affair.

But the military martinet was inexorable. The duel must be fought to satisfy the honor of the army. Consequently these two men, closely related, were compelled to attempt to try to take each other's life. They met. Babocsay, firing aimlessly, nevertheless sent a bullet through the lung of his adversary, and Lieutenant Hajdu died of his wound.

Upon hearing of the death of her brother at the hand of her husband in her quarrel Mme. Babocsay went insane, twice attempted suicide and was finally confined to an asylum.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Momentum and Velocity.

In answer to the question "Is it not velocity that produces gravitation? If we throw a stone against a window of sufficient resistance with too little velocity it will not break, but if we throw it with sufficient velocity the window will break," the New York American says:

"We do not know the cause of gravitation nor of anything, but the increased speed of a stone thrown is not the cause of gravitation; it is the cause of momentum, which is a product of mass multiplied by velocity. Momentum would be the same if the stone were thrown close to the earth, where the full attraction of its gravitation would be felt, or out in space trillions of miles, where the earth's gravitation would be almost infinitesimal—that is, the glass would break by increasing the speed of the stone as here on earth."

A Clear Wind Shield.

A doctor living in a rainy climate whose calls took him out often in wet weather undertook the problem of maintaining clear vision through the wind shield of his automobile regardless of rain, and he succeeded in making a prescription that would do the work. The prescription calls for one ounce of water, two ounces of glycerin and one dram of salt. This is poured on a piece of gauze and then wiped over the glass, care being taken to have all the strokes downward. The effect of the treatment is to prevent raindrops from clinging to the glass.—Saturday Evening Post.

Crafty Woman.

"What an insufferably conceited air Pinkley has!"

"It's all his wife's fault."

"What has she done?"

"She makes him believe she is horribly jealous."

"Jealous of Pinkley! What's her object?"

"It's the only way she can get any money out of him."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, June 1.—Once upon a time—

Before going any farther we wish to inform you that our efforts today will be devoted to chronicling some of the marvelous doings of golfers—doings so marvelous, in fact, that they make poor old Ananias look like a bush league performer in the Liar League.

Well, to continue, once upon a time a golfer went golfing, and with one stroke made a 410 yard hole, in which bogie was four. This gentleman teed off from a little hill and attempted to drive the globule over a little pond. But he didn't get sufficient lift to his ball and away she went right for the center of the pond.

Just as the golfer was about to say "tut tut," or words on that order, something happened. Instead of dropping into the aqua the ball zipped on the face of a rock that jutted out of the water. The impact gave it new impetus, and the ball bounded away over the hill.

About 100 yards farther on was a very thick headed caddy. Yes, yes, you've guessed it. The ball landed on the kid's coco, took unto itself more impetus, hurled a small knoll, rolled into the green, and into the hole.

The man who made this marvelous shot doesn't want to have his name known. It seems he's a little too modest about it—or a little too something or other.

However, Oscar G. Reichardt, of the Midland Valley Club of St. Louis, isn't quite so modest. In an article "Queer Shots in Golf," in one of the recent issues of the Golfer's Magazines, he vouches for having made a 20 foot putt twice in succession—the first time because it was necessary, the second time to convince the skeptical that his first performance wasn't a fluke. And the beauty of this putting, so we are told, is the fact that it had to be made with a semi-circle twist. In other words, as we understand the situation, Mr. Reichardt had to throw a wide outcurve with his putter to insure success for his shot.

And then, there's the case of C. W. Sherman of La Grange, Ill., that is chronicled in the same publication. Sherman got away with a good drive, but topped his second and his ball nestled in a bunch of rocks. Did Mr. Sherman swear and despair? Not he. Mr. Sherman just went into the rocks after that ball, and soaked the ball just where it ought to be soaked under the circumstances. As a result the ball cleared a high bunker, landed on the green and rolled into the hole, giving Sherman three on a par four hole.

William T. Foster, of the South Shore Country Club, Chicago, is another gentleman who draws a place in the Golfer's Hall of Fame, according to the article. While playing a 360 yard hole at French Lick Springs, Ind., Foster got 200 yards on his first drive. On the next drive, using the mid iron, he drove the ball against the flag pole. The ball bounded off against an oak tree and the tree played a carom by sending it back against the flag pole. The ball then decided it had enough bumping and very meekly dropped into the hole.

So many American golfers came back from Dieppe, France, with stories of how they made a certain difficult hole in one that some of their skeptical friends began a little investigation. They discovered that the golfers did make this hole in one—considerably aided and abetted by their shrewd caddies.

It seems that some years ago Albert Bond Lambert an American golfer, driving off from a little hill to a hole that was obscured from plain sight by a big clump of trees, did really make the shot in one. When he arrived at the hole and found his ball therein, he was so delighted that he dug into his jeans and fishing out a gold piece handed it to the amazed caddy.

"What's this for," asked the caddy.

"Why, my boy, that's for you," replied the delighted Lambert. "It is the custom with us, whenever we make some amazing shot, to stand treat—and to let the caddies in on it."

And since then—well, draw your own conclusions.

ULSTER DEFEATS POUGHKEEPSIE

The U. A. Team Have Now Won 7 of 8 Games Played This Season and Claims Championship of Hudson River Valley.

The Ulster "Tigers" kept up their winning streak by overcoming Poughkeepsie high school Saturday at McVey's field by the score of 7 to 2. This made it seven victories for Ulster out of eight games played. The team fortunate enough to win from Ulster gained their victory with a substitute pitcher in Ulster's pitcher's box. U. A. had sweet revenge for their defeat early in the season. Ulster intends to lay claim to the championship of the Hudson because of its good record.

Ulster's lineup was again switched. Terwilliger being unable to play, Webster handled his position at first in fine style. Stevens replaced Peyer behind the bat and caught a good game. Culloton, though "kinked up" from the K. A. game, pitched good ball, allowing three scattered hits. Downer was given a chance on the mound in the last inning. Webster continued his heavy slugging and hit a two and a three bagger. Hallinan, Kiernan and Daly also got three-baggers, which made the game more interesting. When Blair's "spitter" was not fanning the batters it was being hammered for disastrous hits. The score by innings follows:

First Inning—Culloton fanned Purdy. Boyce flied to Peyer and Halpin's fly fell in Downer's mit.

Pehlemann was out, Daly to Boyce. Downer could not connect. Purdy missed Culloton's fly and Culloton stole second. He scored when Webster doubled to left. Peyer repeated Webster's stunt and scored the runner. Peyer stole third and crossed the plate on HaHllinan's three-bagger to center. Stevens fanned.

Second Inning—Daly opened for Poughkeepsie by smashing a three-bagger to deep left. Quintaro hit to Culloton, who caught Daly off third, Quintaro being safe on first. He stole second and tallied on Monas's single through short after Gahan had fanned. Knauss grounded out to Culloton.

Blair struck out Kiernan but walked Joyce. Joyce ran for second and Halpin threw to Boyce, who threw to Quintaro in time to catch Joyce. Pehleman was Blair's fourth victim among the strike-outs.

Third Inning—Blair flied to Hallinan. Joyce caught Purdy's fly but Boyce singled over third. He died on the bases when Halpin grounded to Culloton.

Downer fanned. Culloton was out, Daly to Boyce. Webster was safe on Boyce's error. Monas caught Peyer's fly.

Fourth Inning—Poughkeepsie was retired in quick order. Daly and Quintaro grounded to Culloton and Pehleman respectively. Webster fielded Gahan's grounder.

Hallinan singled over third. Stevens fanned. Kiernan sacrificed and Hallinan went to third. Joyce struck out.

Fifth Ining—Monas out, Culloton to Webster. Culloton fanned Knauss and Blair knocked an easy one to Culloton.

Pehleman singled to left and stole second. Downer flied to Daly. Culloton was out, Daly to Boyce, Pehleman advancing to third Webster smashed a hot one to center and galloped for three bases. Peyer struck out.

Sixth Inning—Purdy grounded to Culloton. Pehleman caught Boyce's fly. Halpin fanned.

Hallinan beat out a bunt. Stevens and Kiernan satisfied themselves by fanning, while Hallinan stole second and third. Joyce planted one in the right field garden for a double, scoring Hallinan. Boyce handled Pehleman's grounder, retiring the side with the score 5 to 1.

Seventh Inning.—Downer, fielding Daly's grounder, threw a little too wide to first and Daly was safe. Stevens caught Quintaro's foul. Gahan fanned. Peyer speared Monass's fly to center.

Downer walked and pilfered second and third. Culloton was fooled by Blair's twisters. Webster was out, Blair to Boyce. Peyer fanned

Eighth Inning—Knauss out, Hallinan to Webster. Blair grounded to Culloton. Purdy fanned.

Ulster tallied two more in the eighth. Hallinan walked. Stevens flied to Gahan. Kiernan made it interesting by clouting a three-bagger to right, scoring Hallinan. Joyce sacrificed, Kiernan scoring. Pehleman was out, Daly to Boyce.

Ninth Inning—In the farewell inning, Downer replaced Culloton, the latter locating at short. Downer was a little wild and walked Boyce Webster captured Halpin's fly. Daly walked, advancing Boyce. Hallinan harpooned Quintaro's fly. Gahan singled to right, scoring Boyce. Monas grounded to Webster. The summary:

Second Game Thursday.

The second game of the K. A.-U. A. series will be staged Thursday. Unless K. A. discovers some new pitcher there will be no third game, because in the last battle Ulster feasted on the offerings of Dick and Wheeler and they probably will repeat the stunt with the same pitchers in the box. Kingston's fielding was not brilliant Thursday and there is great chance for improvement in this respect.

On the other hand Ulster's regular infield will be in action again Thursday. Peyer will return to his job behind the bat. Terwilliger will again locate at first. Hallinan will hold down second. Downer at short and Pehleman on third take pleasure in fielding grounders and rarely make bad throws to first. The outfield will be bettered when Webster returns to left. Stevens and Kiernan will take care of the center and right field gardens. Culloton has not lost a game this year and is the best pitcher Ulster has owned.

Awaken to Enormity Of Crimes Of the House Fly

If ten terrible monsters came every spring to this country and all summer long devoured the people, chewing babies as we eat blackberries biting off the heads of young men, goring the aged to death and stalking about among us as a lion among the martyrs of the Coliseum, we should be up and doing, militia would march forth to give them battle, colonels would wave swords, guns would belch and no enthusiasm would be lacking.

But when the monster is small and playful and common we let him ravage. He doesn't somehow appeal to our imagination.

Yet he does more harm, being 10,000,000,000 or so, than any ten minotaurs, polyphemuses or dragons that ever posed in the pages of tradition.

He is the common house fly.

Although much has been said about him and his deadliness, the people are not yet alive to the enormity of his crimes. There are thousands of kitchens where flies still swarm and infect the food, thousands of babies over whose faces and upon whose lips flies spread their poison, thousands of restaurants and lunch counters where flies are busy at the work of thinning out the human race.

Shrewd Elopement Trick.

The newest elopement trick was recently worked in Switzerland, where the parents of the couple went on a trip to the top of a mountain. While they were there the couple got a bobsled, coasted down the mountainside were away on an express before the parents could get down the mountain on the railway.

Slightly Mixed Metaphor.

An eloquent Irish candidate, speaking of a certain eminent statesman, said: "His smooth tongue is that of a serpent which lures but to destroy, and which holds out sugar plums in one hand, while in the other it holds an unsheathed dagger behind its back."

RED MONOGRAMS WON THREE GAMES

On Sunday the crack Volunteer baseball team of Poughkeepsie, accompanied by a host of friendly rooters, came to Kingston and were defeated by the Red Monograms at McVey's field by a score of 6 to 3. The Bridge City had been scoured for its best baseball talent. Among the visiting team were several of those who represented Ponghkeepsie in the Hudson River League—former pets of "Bill" McCabe—but their attempts to wrest victory from the Monograms were futile.

The Monograms were in fine fettle, and every player was "on the job." Scherer was on the firing line. His puzzling curves baffled the skill of the visitors. Occasionally the visitors hit Scherer hard, but the superb support he received prevented the Volunteers from doing any considerable amount of damage.

Friends of the visitors were about the streets early in the afternoon laying bets that Poughkeepsie would win, in some instances giving odds of 2 to 1. They returned to Poughkeepsie minus much of their filthy lucre.

The game was exciting and hotly contested. Neither side would concede a point, no matter how trivial. The batting of the Monograms was one of the principal features. Notably among the hitters was Ashdown with three two-baggers to his credit. Nolan also made a fine two-base hit. McLean proved himself to be a reliable man with the stick. Two throws he made from right fields to home plate, cutting off a runner in each instance, were loudly applauded. Nolan made two "star" fly catches in left field. The score by innings:

Volunteers. 0 0 0 0 0 2 1 0 0—3.

In Saturday's first game with the Mercury Athletic Club of Newburgh the Monograms won by a score of 9 to 6. Williams and Westfall were the battery for the Monograms; Smith and Sansbury for the visitors. In the second game the Monograms were again victorious, winning by a score of 9 to 4. Features of the game were Ashdown's clean hitting, Cragin's three-bagger, Long's two-bagger and Scherer's fine two base hit. Scherer and Cragin were the battery for the Monograms; Kissam and Sansbury for Newburgh.

MELOSJOS GOES TO CAMDEN.

Bad Man From Marlborough Taken on Extradition Papers.

Jose Melosjoe, who was being held in the county jail to await the action of the grand jury on a charge of assault in the second degree committed in Marlborough, was turned over to Deputy A. A. Gribben of Camden, N. J., today on extradition papers secured by the Camden authorities. Jose has been indicted by the Camden grand jury on a charge of atrocious assault and battery and attempt to kill and is known in that city as Millas. Jose is a hard character and was also mixed up in a stabbing affray in another state. When brought to the county jail from Marlborough a few days ago he was recognized by Under Sheriff Archie McLaughlin as the man who was badly wanted by the Camden authorities. There was a reward of $50 offered for his apprehension and undoubtedly Mr. McLaughlin will receive it as it was through his recognition of Jose that the Camden authorities became aware of his being locked up in the county jail here.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

New York, June 1.—Once upon a time—

Before going any farther we wish to inform you that our efforts today will be devoted to chronicling some of the marvelous doings of golfers—doings so marvelous, in fact, that they make poor old Ananias look like a bush league performer in the Liar League.

Well, to continue, once upon a time a golfer went golfing, and with one stroke made a 410 yard hole, in which bogie was four. This gentleman teed off from a little hill and attempted to drive the globule over a little pond. But he didn't get sufficient lift to his ball and away she went right for the center of the pond.

Just as the golfer was about to say "tut tut," or words on that order, something happened. Instead of dropping into the aqua the ball zipped on the face of a rock that jutted out of the water. The impact gave it new impetus, and the ball bounded away over the hill.

About 100 yards farther on was a very thick headed caddy. Yes, yes, you've guessed it. The ball landed on the kid's coco, took unto itself more impetus, hurled a small knoll, rolled into the green, and into the hole.

The man who made this marvelous shot doesn't want to have his name known. It seems he's a little too modest about it—or a little too something or other.

However, Oscar G. Reichardt, of the Midland Valley Club of St. Louis, isn't quite so modest. In an article "Queer Shots in Golf," in one of the recent issues of the Golfer's Magazines, he vouches for having made a 20 foot putt twice in succession—the first time because it was necessary, the second time to convince the skeptical that his first performance wasn't a fluke. And the beauty of this putting, so we are told, is the fact that it had to be made with a semi-circle twist. In other words, as we understand the situation, Mr. Reichardt had to throw a wide outcurve with his putter to insure success for his shot.

And then, there's the case of C. W. Sherman of La Grange, Ill., that is chronicled in the same publication. Sherman got away with a good drive, but topped his second and his ball nestled in a bunch of rocks. Did Mr. Sherman swear and despair? Not he. Mr. Sherman just went into the rocks after that ball, and soaked the ball just where it ought to be soaked under the circumstances. As a result the ball cleared a high bunker, landed on the green and rolled into the hole, giving Sherman three on a par four hole.

William T. Foster, of the South Shore Country Club, Chicago, is another gentleman who draws a place in the Golfer's Hall of Fame, according to the article. While playing a 360 yard hole at French Lick Springs, Ind., Foster got 200 yards on his first drive. On the next drive, using the mid iron, he drove the ball against the flag pole. The ball bounded off against an oak tree and the tree played a carom by sending it back against the flag pole. The ball then decided it had enough bumping and very meekly dropped into the hole.

So many American golfers came back from Dieppe, France, with stories of how they made a certain difficult hole in one that some of their skeptical friends began a little investigation. They discovered that the golfers did make this hole in one—considerably aided and abetted by their shrewd caddies.

It seems that some years ago Albert Bond Lambert an American golfer, driving off from a little hill to a hole that was obscured from plain sight by a big clump of trees, did really make the shot in one. When he arrived at the hole and found his ball therein, he was so delighted that he dug into his jeans and fishing out a gold piece handed it to the amazed caddy.

"What's this for," asked the caddy.

"Why, my boy, that's for you," replied the delighted Lambert. "It is the custom with us, whenever we make some amazing shot, to stand treat—and to let the caddies in on it."

And since then—well, draw your own conclusions.

ULSTER DEFEATS POUGHKEEPSIE

The U. A. Team Have Now Won 7 of 8 Games Played This Season and Claims Championship of Hudson River Valley.

The Ulster "Tigers" kept up their winning streak by overcoming Poughkeepsie high school Saturday at McVey's field by the score of 7 to 2. This made it seven victories for Ulster out of eight games played. The team fortunate enough to win from Ulster gained their victory with a substitute pitcher in Ulster's pitcher's box. U. A. had sweet revenge for their defeat early in the season. Ulster intends to lay claim to the championship of the Hudson because of its good record.

Ulster's lineup was again switched. Terwilliger being unable to play, Webster handled his position at first in fine style. Stevens replaced Peyer behind the bat and caught a good game. Culloton, though "kinked up" from the K. A. game, pitched good ball, allowing three scattered hits. Downer was given a chance on the mound in the last inning. Webster continued his heavy slugging and hit a two and a three bagger. Hallinan, Kiernan and Daly also got three-baggers, which made the game more interesting. When Blair's "spitter" was not fanning the batters it was being hammered for disastrous hits. The score by innings follows:

First Inning—Culloton fanned Purdy. Boyce flied to Peyer and Halpin's fly fell in Downer's mit.

Pehlemann was out, Daly to Boyce. Downer could not connect. Purdy missed Culloton's fly and Culloton stole second. He scored when Webster doubled to left. Peyer repeated Webster's stunt and scored the runner. Peyer stole third and crossed the plate on HalHllinan's three-bagger to center. Stevens fanned.

Second Inning—Daly opened for Poughkeepsie by smashing a three-bagger to deep left. Quintaro hit to Culloton, who caught Daly off third, Quintaro being safe on first. He stole second and tallied on Monas's single through short after Gahan had fanned. Knauss grounded out to Culloton.

Blair struck out Kiernan but walked Joyce. Joyce ran for second and Halpin threw to Boyce, who threw to Quintaro in time to catch Joyce. Pehleman was Blair's fourth victim among the strike-outs.

Third Inning—Blair flied to Hallinan. Joyce caught Purdy's fly but Boyce singled over third. He died on the bases when Halpin grounded to Culloton.

Downer fanned. Culloton was out, Daly to Boyce. Webster was safe on Boyce's error. Monas caught Peyer's fly.

Fourth Inning—Poughkeepsie was retired in quick order. Daly and Quintaro grounded to Culloton and Pehleman respectively. Webster fielded Gahan's grounder.

Hallinan singled over third. Stevens fanned. Kiernan sacrificed and Hallinan went to third. Joyce struck out.

Fifth Inning—Monas out, Culloton to Webster. Culloton fanned Knauss and Blair knocked an easy one to Culloton.

Pehleman singled to left and stole second. Downer flied to Daly. Culloton was out, Daly to Boyce, Pehleman advancing to third Webster smashed a hot one to center and galloped for three bases. Peyer struck out.

Sixth Inning—Purdy grounded to Culloton. Pehleman caught Boyce's fly. Halpin fanned.

Hallinan beat out a bunt. Stevens and Kiernan satisfied themselves by fanning, while Hallinan stole second and third. Joyce planted one in the right field garden for a double, scoring Hallinan. Boyce handled Pehleman's grounder, retiring the side with the score 5 to 1.

Seventh Inning.—Downer, fielding Daly's grounder, threw a little too wide to first and Daly was safe. Stevens caught Quintaro's foul. Gahan fanned. Peyer speared Monass's fly to center.

Downer walked and pilfered second and third. Culloton was fooled by Blair's twisters. Webster was out, Blair to Boyce. Peyer fanned.

Eighth Inning—Knauss out, Hallinan to Webster. Blair grounded to Culloton. Purdy fanned.

Ulster tallied two more in the eighth. Hallinan walked. Stevens flied to Gahan. Kiernan made it interesting by clouting a three-bagger to right, scoring Hallinan. Joyce sacrificed, Kiernan scoring. Pehleman was out, Daly to Boyce.

Ninth Inning—In the farewell inning, Downer replaced Culloton, the latter locating at short. Downer was a little wild and walked Boyce Webster captured Halpin's fly. Daly walked, advancing Boyce. Hallinan harpooned Quintaro's fly. Gahan singled to right, scoring Boyce. Monas grounded to Webster. The summary:

Second Game Thursday.

The second game of the K. A.-U. A. series will be staged Thursday. Unless K. A. discovers some new pitcher there will be no third game, because in the last battle Ulster feasted on the offerings of Dick and Wheeler and they probably will repeat the stunt with the same pitchers in the box. Kingston's fielding was not brilliant Thursday and there is great chance for improvement in this respect.

On the other hand Ulster's regular infield will be in action again Thursday. Peyer will return to his job behind the bat. Terwilliger will again locate at first. Hallinan will hold down second. Downer at short and Pehleman on third take pleasure in fielding grounders and rarely make bad throws to first. The outfield will be bettered when Webster returns to left. Stevens and Kiernan will take care of the center and right field gardens. Culloton has not lost a game this year and is the best pitcher Ulster has owned.

RED MONOGRAMS WON THREE GAMES

On Sunday the crack Volunteer baseball team of Poughkeepsie, accompanied by a host of friendly rooters, came to Kingston and were defeated by the Red Monograms at McVey's field by a score of 6 to 3. The Bridge City had been scoured for its best baseball talent. Among the visiting team were several of those who represented Ponghkeepsie in the Hudson River League—former pets of "Bill" McCabe—but their attempts to wrest victory from the Monograms were futile.

The Monograms were in fine fettle, and every player was "on the job." Scherer was on the firing line. His puzzling curves baffled the skill of the visitors. Occasionally the visitors hit Scherer hard, but the superb support he received prevented the Volunteers from doing any considerable amount of damage.

Friends of the visitors were about the streets early in the afternoon laying bets that Poughkeepsie would win, in some instances giving odds of 2 to 1. They returned to Poughkeepsie minus much of their filthy lucre.

The game was exciting and hotly contested. Neither side would concede a point, no matter how trivial. The batting of the Monograms was one of the principal features. Notably among the hitters was Ashdown with three two-baggers to his credit. Nolan also made a fine two-base hit. McLean proved himself to be a reliable man with the stick. Two throws he made from right fields to home plate, cutting off a runner in each instance, were loudly applauded. Nolan made two "star" fly catches in left field. The score by innings:

Volunteers. 0 0 0 0 0 2 1 0 0—3.

In Saturday's first game with the Mercury Athletic Club of Newburgh the Monograms won by a score of 9 to 6. Williams and Westfall were the battery for the Monograms; Smith and Sansbury for the visitors. In the second game the Monograms were again victorious, winning by a score of 9 to 4. Features of the game were Ashdown's clean hitting, Cragin's three-bagger, Long's two-bagger and Scherer's fine two base hit. Scherer and Cragin were the battery for the Monograms; Kissam and Sansbury for Newburgh.

MELOSJOS GOES TO CAMDEN.

Bad Man From Marlborough Taken on Extradition Papers.

Jose Melosjoe, who was being held in the county jail to await the action of the grand jury on a charge of assault in the second degree committed in Marlborough, was turned over to Deputy A. A. Gribben of Camden, N. J., today on extradition papers secured by the Camden authorities. Jose has been indicted by the Camden grand jury on a charge of atrocious assault and battery and attempt to kill and is known in that city as Millas. Jose is a hard character and was also mixed up in a stabbing affray in another state. When brought to the county jail from Marlborough a few days ago he was recognized by Under Sheriff Archie McLaughlin as the man who was badly wanted by the Camden authorities. There was a reward of $50 offered for his apprehension and undoubtedly Mr. McLaughlin will receive it as it was through his recognition of Jose that the Camden authorities became aware of his being locked up in the county jail here.

Awaken to Enormity Of Crimes Of the House Fly

IF ten terrible monsters came every spring to this country and all summer long devoured the people, chewing babies as we eat blackberries biting off the heads of young men, goring the aged to death and stalking about among us as a lion among the martyrs of the Coliseum, we should be up and doing, militia would march forth to give them battle, colonels would wave swords, guns would belch and no enthusiasm would be lacking.

But when the monster is small and playful and common we let him ravage. He doesn't somehow appeal to our imagination.

Yet he does more harm, being 10,000,000,000 or so, than any ten minotaurs, polyphemuses or dragons that ever posed in the pages of tradition.

He is the common house fly.

Although much has been said about him and his deadliness, the people are not yet alive to the enormity of his crimes. There are thousands of kitchens where flies still swarm and infect the food, thousands of babies over whose faces and upon whose lips flies spread their poison, thousands of restaurants and lunch counters where flies are busy at the work of thinning out the human race.

Shrewd Elopement Trick.

The newest elopement trick was recently worked in Switzerland, where the parents of the couple went on a trip to the top of a mountain. While they were there the couple got a bobsled, coasted down the mountainside were away on an express before the parents could get down the mountain on the railway.

Slightly Mixed Metaphor.

An eloquent Irish candidate, speaking of a certain eminent statesman, said: "His smooth tongue is that of a serpent which lures but to destroy, and which holds out sugar plums in one hand, while in the other it holds an unsheathed dagger behind its back."
